ARREST WIDOW FOR FOWL THEFT

Sheriff Bebout Goes to Milroy This
Afternoon to Bring Mrs. Sarah
Richey to Jail.

TWO GRAND JURY CHARGES

She is Taken in Decatur County For Stealing 10 Turkeys From
Mrs. Lot Holman.

Mrs. Sarah Richey, a widow, living below New Salem, who formerly resided in Milroy, was arrested at her home just over the Rush county line, north of Greensburg today on two grand jury indictments, returned by the last grand jury.

The indictments charged larceny and contributing to the delinquency of her children. Mrs. Richey was arrested by Sheriff Patterson of Decatur county. He left Greensburg at one o'clock this afternoon to take Mrs. Richey to Milroy, where she was to be transferred to Sheriff Bebout of this county, who was to bring her on to Rushville. At a late hour this afternoon the Rush county sheriff had not arrived.

The larceny charge was preferred by the grand jury on account of the theft of ten turkeys from Mrs. Lot Holman, living near New Salem, early this summer. Mrs. Richey had earned a reputation of this sort while she lived in Milroy and once had to stand trial for chicken stealing, but was found not guilty.

Early last summer Mrs. Holman discovered that several of her valuable turkeys had been stolen. Although Mrs. Richey lives several miles from the Holman farm, Mrs. Holman was informed of Mrs. Richey's reputation, and disguising herself so she could not be recognized, made a trip to the Richey farm to see what she could learn.

Mrs. Holman recognized some of her turkeys, but they had been changed in color by the use of paint, and by clipping their wings. Mrs. Holman essayed the role of a detective and led Mrs. Richey on to see what she could find out about her property. She inquired where she could get some turkeys, and was informed by Mrs. Richey that Mrs. Holman who lived several miles north she said, raised fine turkeys.

That was enough for Mrs. Holman and she left, determined to return later and claim her property. Mrs. Holman had heard that Mrs. Richey might resort to the use of firearms, so she prepared for such an emergency. When Mrs. Holman went back and demanded Mrs. Richey give up the stolen property, Mrs. Richey promptly started in to bluff Mrs. Holman out by calling to her son to bring her gun.

But Mrs. Holman was not to be disposed of in any such a manner and she promptly called Mrs. Richey's bluff, so to speak. She told the woman she had come prepared, and that if Mrs. Richey started any gun play she would be met with the same thing. Mrs. Richey soon quieted down and said Mrs. Holman could have the turkeys she thought were hers. Mrs. Holman could find only a few of the number which had been stolen.

Little is known of the other charge of contributing to her children's delinquency other than that Mrs. Richey is said to have children and has been using them to advantage.

Mrs. Richey was alleged to have stolen chickens from a relative while she lived in Milroy, but when the relative returned home he found the fowls had been returned. Mrs. Richey stood trial but was set free.

FINDS CONDITIONS GOOD

Henry County Board of Charities
Visits Spiceland Home.

The county board of charities paid a call to the Spiceland Children's Home Tuesday, and found conditions satisfactory, says the Newcastle Times. All the children, thirty-two in number, were in school. Of these fifteen are Henry county children and seventeen from Rush county. It is understood that Mrs. Barber will relinquish her position as matron with the close of the year, and that Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Harvey of Spiceland will be appointed to the position.

BOY SAYS FARMER BEAT HIM CRUELLY

Walter Sedam Escapes From Farm
South of Knightstown, Seeking
Aid in Newcastle.

TAKEN TO HENRY COUNTY FARM

Walter Sedan, who claims that he is sixteen years old, but who looks several years younger, was brought to police headquarters Wednesday afternoon by Omer Catt, who found him trying to solicit aid and being impressed by his story took it up with the officers, says the Newcastle Courier. The boy claims that he had been living with a farmer south of Knightstown, but because of brutal treatment he had received at the hands of the man, he ran away. He is without funds and was attempting to get aid to take him to the home of an aunt, who lives in Sheridan.

Directly after he was brought into the station he had a fainting spell and was quite sick for some time. He has had very little to eat and has been exposed to the weather for several nights. After a physician was called and he was revived he was taken to the restaurant and given a meal.

Township Trustee Peed was notified and he made arrangements with Bryant Hosier at the county farm to take the boy for several days until inquiry could be made into his case.

HOW IS HE, YES?

Muncie Press: One bunch of Bull Moose bosses yanked Joseph Greenstreet of Newcastle off the Bull Moose congressional ticket in the Sixth district and another bunch sitting under the flashing eye of the immortal Albert Jehovah himself, has nominated him for congress. Now, if he wasn't fit to run for congress, how can he be the man to help Albert Jeremiah wade through blood, slaughter and sudden death to the New Jerusalem in the State of Indiana?

Think This Over

Democratic farmer, why should you vote for free trade and the return of the conditions existing in Cleveland's administration?

The average corn crop for a farmer is thirty acres. The usual crop averages about sixty bushels to the acre. At fifty cents a bushel—corn is now quoted at sixty-one cents—the farmer can realize $30 to the acre. In Cleveland's administration corn sold at twenty cents. Then an acre of corn was worth $10. A crop in those days brought $20 less than the present one. Then today a farmer raising an average corn crop is $600 better off than he was in '93. Is a vote for Woodrow Wilson worth that much?

MAYOR BLACK MAKES DENIAL

Says he Was Not Questioned by Dr.
Parsons, But Took Part in Probe.

RELATES HIS SIDE OF STORY

"Green Carpet" Session Has Desired
Effect on Gambling as Word
Goes Down the Line.

The story of the "green carpet" session of the city council appearing last evening created a profound stir among the city officials and Mayor B. A. Black was indignant because his name was connected with the police as being one of the witnesses in the gambling probe started by Councilman Parsons.

Mayor Black when seen today stated that the real facts in the case had not been given and proceeded to relate his version of the affair. Mayor Black said the meeting of the council had been concluded and several of the members were preparing to leave when called back by Dr. Parsons. According to the mayor, Dr. Parsons stated he had something to bring before the council and looked carefully around to see that no newspaper men were present as his communication was to be strictly confidential.

"Dr. Parsons did not ask me a single question," said Mayor Black, "and when he told us his attention had been brought to gambling here in the city, I spoke up and stated that as chief executive of this city, if there was any gambling going on I wanted to know all about it and when he suggested that the police be questioned I readily consented. The probe, if there was one, was conducted by myself rather than by Dr. Parsons as I asked most of the questions."

Mayor Black declared he was not asked a single question concerning gambling. Mr. Black said like all other people he had heard rumors of gambling, but could not prove it. He pointed out that it had been one of his policies never to permit gambling and had told the police if any help was desired in stopping a game just call on him and he would help.

Mayor Black admitted that the police had made a "near" raid Saturday night on a room in the Commercial Block and that this was brought in Tuesday night at the "green carpet" session. The mayor denied that he was nervous or even angry at the time the questioning was taking place.

Policeman Wolter said today that the after session was not near as warm as first reported. McAllister demanded to know why he had not been informed of the gambling that was going on and Wolter replied that he had already told him three different times. Mayor Black is alleged

MRS. MICHELSON SUGGUMBS

Passes Away After Brief Illness at Daughter's Home.

Mrs. Mary Ann Michelson, 84 years old, died last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Bay, in West Second street. Mrs. Michelson had been ill only a few days suffering with the same ailment, which claimed Mrs. Bay's two-year-old daughter, day before yesterday. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

CITY LOST FIRST DOWN IN CASE

Judge Blair Overruled Demurrer,
Thus Holding Miller's Complaint
for Injunction is Good.

IT WILL BE HEARD TOMORROW

Four Divorce Suits Were Disposed of
and Rulings Made Closing
Many Cases.

Judge Blair is winding up the business of the September term of the circuit court which will close Saturday.

The city today lost the first fight in the injunction suit, brought by Philip Miller to seek to enjoin the city from selling electrical supplies. Judge Blair overruled the demurrer of the city, and in this action held that the complaint of Miller is good. Had he sustained the demurrer, the ruling would have been in effect that the complaint was not good, and that Miller, in order to keep the case in court, would have had to file an amended complaint.

In view of the fact that this is an injunction suit Judge Blair is anxious to hear it at once. The trial will be started tomorrow afternoon at one-thirty o'clock. Miller alleges that the city has no right to do business under the laws of Indiana, it being the owner of the municipal plant.

Four divorce suits were disposed of today. In the case of Anna Belle Stewart against William Stewart, in which a decree was asked, a divorce was granted the plaintiff on payment of costs.

Judge Blair returned a decision in the divorce case of John M. Montgomery against Minnie Montgomery, granting a decree to the husband and refusing the wife one on her cross complaint. The children: Roy, age 14; Mazie, age 12, and Sylvia, age 9 were committed to the Rush-Henry orphan's home at Spiceland, the court holding that the parents were not fit persons to care for them. The father was ordered to pay $3 a week into the treasury of Rush county for their support until further decree of the court.

Only recently Mrs. Montgomery was given a 6 months suspended jail sentence and fined one dollar for conducting a house of ill fame. She was also charged in a grand jury indictment with contributing to delinquency, but this was dismissed when the fine and sentence was passed in the other.

The case of Cordelia J. Robbins against Edward H. Robbins, in which a divorce, the setting aside of a deed and a thousand dollars alimony was asked, was dismissed by the plaintiff.

The divorce suit of Bertha McBee against Charles H. McBee, in which a thousand dollars alimony was demanded, was dismissed for want of prosecution.

Four claims against the estate of Ada J. Matney, of which James Mercer is the administrator, were dismissed by the claimants. They were, and the amounts of the claims asked, are as follows: Ocea E. Williams, $277.58; John O. Williams, $25; Elijah A. Matney, $30, and William F. Matney, $100.

The highway petition of Charles H. Alger and others, an appeal from the commissioners court, was dismissed. The petition was for the improvement of parts of Perkins, Sixth, Seventh and Eighth streets under the three-mile road law, which was not sustained by the commissioners on account of the number of remonstrators. A similar petition has since been held good as the time for the

SAYS IT LOOKS LIKE TAFT

Omer Collier, Prominent Democrat
Locally, Writes From Baltimore.

Omer Collier of this city, a cigar maker, and one of the prominent Democratic workers in this city, has written Will O'Neil that everything looks decidedly Taft in the East. Mr. Collier is in Baltimore where he is attending the convention of the cigar makers union. Mr. Collier writes that the name of Roosevelt, the instigator of the Bull Moose party, is seldom heard and that the battle lies between Wilson and Taft with a strong undercurrent for the president.

PLANS FOR SEVERAL SPEECHES HERE

Republican Advisory Committee Confers With Candidates in Regard to Political Meetings.

DEMOCRATS OPEN OCTOBER 14

The Republican advisory committee and the candidates for county offices held a conference this afternoon at the Republican headquarters. The meeting was for the purpose of outlining a plan of campaign and to consider speaking dates. The central committee has a line on several orators of national repute and the dates will probably be announced soon.

The Democrats of Rush county will open the campaign here October 14, when Governor O'Neil of Alabama will speak at the Coliseum. Finly H. Gray, Democratic candidate for congress is spending this week in Rush county speaking at the small towns.

MUCH STOCK CONSIGNED

Prospects For Horse Show and Sale
Grow Brighter Daily.

Prospects for the annual fall horse show and combination sale, which events will be held October 16, 17, 18, and 19, are growing brighter every day. J. C. Ryburn, secretary, went to Hamilton, Ohio, today to advertise the show and auction. John S. Lackey, the noted Cambridge City horseman, has sent word that he will ship nine head of Shetland ponies here for the auction. Luke Duffy of Indianapolis has consigned two light harness horses to the sale. A Mr. Lord of Greentown, Howard county, will send two draft horses for the sale.

GARD BOY BROUGHT HERE.

Ralph Gard, who was injured by a train in Anderson a few weeks ago and who has been confined in an Anderson hospital since that time, has been brought to his home in this city. One of his feet, and half of the other, had to be amputated. He was asleep on the track when the train passed over him.

The Mussman Manufacturing Co. of Indianapolis has brought suit on account against Mrs. Ella H. Buchtel of Knightstown. Judgment in the sum of $61.85 is demanded.

THE WEATHER

Showers this afternoon or tonight. Colder in north portion. Friday fair and colder.

MOTHERS DAY TO BE OBSERVED

That Sentiment Will Prevail at Tabernacle Tomorrow Afternoon When
Dr. Biederwolf Will Preach.

MEETING FOR H. S. STUDENTS

Evangelist Scolds Church Members
For Not Leading Sinners to Christ When They Can.

MOTHERS DAY.
* This was God's gift, immortal, *
* changeless, vast, *
* Whose name He wrote, be- *
* cause he knew no other *
* Name sweeter, on our waking *
* consciousness, *
* In golden characters. That *
* name was "Mother." *

The sentiment that clings about the mother will prevail at the tabernacle tomorrow when Mothers day service will be held in the afternoon at two-thirty o'clock. Every person is requested to wear a white carnation, which may be procured at several stores free of charge, in commemoration of the day. Dr. Biederwolf will preach and some special musical numbers will be presented.

The Knights of the Holy Grail will have a bean supper at the St. Paul M. E. church this evening and then march to the tabernacle in a body. This afternoon at four o'clock a teens meeting was held at the tabernacle when all boys and girls under thirteen and nineteen years of age were addressed by Dr. Biederwolf.

Beginning yesterday meetings are being held every afternoon in the tabernacle at three o'clock, preceded a half hour by Miss Parshall, who conducts a Bible study class. There will be no Bible class tomorrow afternoon on account of Mothers day. Tomorrow afternoon at four o'clock Miss Parshall will hold a meeting for high school students at the Christian church. Don Cochran will lead the music.

The crowd last night was the equal of the one the night before, but the interest was intense when Dr. Biederwolf began to preach on the subject, "No Man Cares For My Soul." He chastised church members verbally for not speaking to sinners when they know their word alone would lead them to Christ. His appeal was eloquent and vibrant with enthusiasm, and it was well received. Dr. Biederwolf said in part:

"A man is in pretty hard lines when nobody cares for him. It would not be so bad to be like some Robinson Crusoe out on a lonely island with no one about you, but to have your garments brushed on every side by your fellow creatures and yet to be alone in all the world is a thought sad enough for tears.

"Of course I might just as well stop long enough before I go any further to say to you that you are what you want to be. Don't go around throwing the blame for your low down condition on anybody else.

"If you are a foul mouthed, profane curser, it's because you'd rather cuss than pray; if you're a booze fighter, or even a moderate drinking man, it's because you'd rather fill your hide with red liquor, than to be sober and decent. If you're a libertine, it's because you'd rather be lecherous than be a Christian and pure; you know that if you become a Christian there'll have to be a mighty big change take place in your life and you ain't man enough to meet the issue and get square with God.

"Yet all this don't excuse the

AMUSEMENTS

"Queens of the Folies Bergere" is the title of the big burlesque show holding the boards at the Empire theater, Indianapolis this week. This show presents two novel burlettas, the first showing the Famous Times Square in New York City at night. It is entitled "The Eagle Birds" and is the breezy sort of farce most enjoyed by burlesque patrons. "The Oriental Palace" is the finale, while an excellent olio of vaudeville acts is sandwiched between the two. Joe J. Sullivan, one of the funniest of Irish comedians heads the company which is a notable one.

Geo. T. Craddock, Rubie, Ark., says: "I was bothered with lumbago for seven years so I could not work. I tried several kinds of kidney medicine which gave me little or no relief. Two bottles of Foley Kidney Pills cured me and now I can do any kind of work. I cheerfully recommend them to my friends." F. B. Johnson & Co.

The Shubert Murat theater, Indianapolis announces its attraction for Wednesday and Thursday, October 2 and 3, Neil O'Brien and his "American Minstrels," a new organization of burnt-cork celebrities which has already attracted much favorable attention. It's star, Neil O'Brien, and in fact all the principal performers surrounding him have long been prime favorites with local audiences.

For years, Mr. O'Brien has been identified with the success of Lew Dockstader in which organization he was the chief factor in winning the greater portion of its success and fame. At the head of his own company, Mr. O'Brien can now produce and consummate ideas which have long been his pet theories regarding minstrel production. Always filling his calling with dignity added to sincere, earnest and able effort, no performer on the minstrel stage would appear more capable to the task of bringing back minstrelsy to its old time vigor and favor.

The company includes Billy Van, Eddie Nazier, the Exposition Four, Wm. H. Hallett, Jack McShane, Pete Detzel, Al Fontaine, Doran & Strong, Charles E. Wheeler, Major Nowak and a score of other well known minstrel names in addition to a big singing and dancing chorus and an orchestra of eighteen.

Veniremen Afraid to Serve in Dynamite Case.

Indianapolis, Oct. 3.—The distinguishing feature of the efforts to get a jury is fear of organized labor should they sit upon the jury to try the iron workers indicted for dynamiting, and more than one of the veniremen called here from his home in the mining districts or cities where organized labor is very strong, indicated extreme reluctance to act and managed to be excused. B. F. CONSERVATION OF HUMAN RACE

Essense of Charity, Kindness, Patience and Truth.

WE MUST LOOK TO HYGIENE

This Term includes, Says Dr. John H. Hurty, Head of the American Health Association, Every Necessary Force to Prevent Disease, to Increase Strength and Endurance and to Prevent the Production of the Unfit.

Indianapolis, Oct. 3.—At the conservation congress a striking address on the "Conservation of the Human Race" was made by Dr. John N. Hurty of Indianapolis, president of the American Public Health association. He said:

"High authority says we are only 50 per cent efficient; that we live out less than one-half the natural duration of life; that we consume twice as much food as is needed to maintain efficient life; that we waste as much as we use, and that one-half of all human beings born either die before reaching maturity or fall into the defective, delinquent or dependent classes.

"In these facts we find reasons why we waste the major portion of all our resources, and call it development. In these facts we find reasons for the existence of robber taxation and predatory business.

"For, a people who waste themselves, will, of course, waste their natural resources. Therefore, the first, the most important, the fundamental conservation, is the conservation of human efficiency.

"A people who cannot be brought to a realization of the fact that they lead only half lives and, who realizing, will not mend, will show the nations to come what fools the present mortals were."

Most people do not know how, or will not, conserve their vitality, Dr. Hurty said, and this results in the shortening of life. Our vital statistics show, he said, that fully 100,000 people in Indiana are sick at all times, and 25,000 of them are consumptive. He said that not less than half of this is preventable, and three-fourths may be prevented by strong effort.

Patent Medicines Denounced.

Dr. Hurty denounced the indiscriminate use of patent medicines, and said: "At present we are in the patent medicine stage of ignorance from which we must emerge before real conservation of human life and energy can be realized."

School hygiene is an important force in conserving human vitality, Dr. Hurty said, and he referred to the advanced step Indiana had taken in passing a law ordaining that schoolhouses shall be built in a sanitary manner. There is a world-wide movement to save children and make them strong, he said, and quoted a remark by a Japanese physician visiting Indiana, who said: "We have relatively fewer short graves in our cemeteries."

"May God hasten the business men to permit hygiene to banish those twin leprosy which are important factors in the causation of insanity, crime and pauperism and which so fearfully wreck the lives of so many innocent women and children as well as wreck the lives of the guilty," he exclaimed.

The Science of Living.

We must learn the science of living, Dr. Hurty said, and "the science of living begins at the mouth."

All drugs, poisons and improper foods should be kept away from the mouth, Dr. Hurty advised. He said that over-fatigue is another element which causes great loss of human vitality and weakens the body so that it is attacked by diseases.

The question of heredity should be more thoroughly studied, he said, and the production of the hereditary insane and idiotic should be prevented.

"Indiana now has five great insane asylums, each representing about one million dollars, and there are enough insane in the jails, poorhouses and in homes to fill another one," he said.

The population of Indiana increased 16 per cent in the last decade and insanity increased 29 per cent, the speaker declared. In closing Dr. Hurty said:

"We must look to hygiene, the science of health, to conserve human vitality. The term includes every necessary force to prevent disease, to increase strength and endurance, and to prevent the production of the unfit.

"The ponderous and impressively costly courts have been grinding for centuries and crime increases. Punishment and fear of punishment restrains evil doing, but does not eradicate the tendency to evil. This and other defects we must, as far as possible, breed out of the race, and science can find a valid answer for every objection which obstructionists can raise.

"Hygiene not only makes for greater physical strength and endurance, but it makes for greater moral strength. It is the essence of charity, kindness, patience and truth.

"When, through hygiene, defectives, delinquents and dependents are no longer propagated, when simplicity and frugality of living are achieved, voluntary celibacy and voluntary childlessness will become discreditable, and sickness, disease and premature death will disappear before temperance and sensified homes."

Truth About Reciprocity.

If you are against President Taft on the reciprocity issue, whom will you support?

Will it be Roosevelt?

In a letter to President Taft, dated New York, January 12, 1911, Roosevelt said: It seems to me that what you propose to do with Canada is admirable from every standpoint." He also said to President Taft in the same letter: "It is greatly to your credit to make the effort." But Mr. Roosevelt went far beyond President Taft's proposition. He wrote in his letter the following sentence:

"I firmly believe in free trade with Canada for both economic and political reasons."

If you support Roosevelt you not only support reciprocity but absolute free trade with Canada. Do you want free trade with Canada?

Would you support Woodrow Wilson?

In his testimony before the Tariff Board in 1882, Governor Wilson, then a college professor, when asked the question, "are you advocating the repeal of all tariff laws?" answered, "Of all protective tariff laws; of establishing a tariff for revenue only. It seems to be very absurd to maintain that we shall have free trade between different portions of this country and at the same time shut ourselves out from free communication with other producing countries of the world."

Woodrow Wilson is a confessed free trader. Champ Clark, speaker of the Democratic House, publicly asserted on the floor of the House that he would like to see every Custom House torn down. If the Democratic party comes into power there will be free trade between the United States and Canada and every other producing country.

President Taft's reciprocity proposition made concessions to Canada, but provided for an equal return. Canada rejected the proposition, whereupon the Republican members of Congress voted to repeal the reciprocity law which had been passed, the Democrats voting solidly in favor of its retention. Canadian newspapers openly favor the election of either Roosevelt or Wilson, in order to obtain a one-sided arrangement which shall be wholly beneficial to Canada without regard to the welfare of the American people.

Reciprocity is not a dead issue, with the election of either Wilson or Roosevelt it would become very much alive.

From Albert J. Beveridge's own assertions he is politically "dead" today. He admitted to John Bonnell of Crawfordville, former internal revenue collector, before the Republican convention, according to a statement by Bonnell, that Roosevelt's nomination meant to him (Beveridge) his political life or death. Well, Theodore was not nominated at the Republican convention. What's the inference?

Since the Republicans have recovered from the lethargy in which they have been mired, as it was indicated that they have at the Sixth district rally in Newcastle, this week, there is bound to be something in the old "burnt" district to make Finly Gray look to his toga. The new district chairman, P. J. Lynch, a prosperous florist of Newcastle, is a live wire in the political arena, and promises to arouse the Republicans to such strenuous work as they have not experienced in many a day.

Christian for his miserable neglect, and his lack of concern for his neighbor's soul.

"It's a strange thing that there ever could have been a time in the history of the world when the words, 'no man cares for my soul' could drop from human lips and be an honest expression of a man's feelings because of the neglect of God's people in showing a little interest in him. And it's a good deal sadder that after two thousand years of the preaching of the gospel of Jesus Christ that man can live in Rushville and say those same words for the same reason that Christian people have no concern about him

"I am going to suggest two or three reasons for this lack of concern why we don't care more than we do for the souls of other people:

"The first is that we are too busy caring for other things. We put so much emphasis on the material side of life that we have no time left for the spiritual.

"A crank ran up to Mr. Emerson one day and in great excitement exclaimed: 'Do you know the world will speedily come to an end?' 'Well,' said Mr. Emerson, 'I think I can get along without it.' He could and you can too. And some of you are going to get along without this world a good deal sooner than you think.

"When John Quincy Adams was in tottering old age, a man said to him once: 'Good morning, Mr. Adams, how are you?' 'Very well, thank you,' he replied, 'the house in which I live is somewhat dilapidated and fast tottering into ruins, but Mr. Adams himself, thank you, was never better in all his life.' Of course he wasn't. But to so many of the spiritual is so unreal that we have almost forgotten that there is any such thing.

"There are people here tonight, who are called Christians and you have not thought five minutes this day about God or your soul, or about the grave, or about eternity, or about the real meaning of this life, and is it any wonder that you are neglecting the souls of others.

"This brings to me the second reason why we are not more concerned than we are. It is this: we don't seem to realize that we have personal responsibility for the saving of other souls.

"Listen to what God says: 'So thou oh, son of man, I have set thee a watchman unto the house of Israel. Therefore thou shalt hear the word at my mouth and warn them from me. When I say unto the wicked, oh, wicked man, thou shalt surely die if thou dost not speak to warn the wicked from his way, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity but his blood will I require at thy hand.'

"Listen! I will give you another reason why. It is because of our failure to have clear views of the condition of lost men.

"I have known fathers to awake in the night time and find themselves weeping and praying for lost loved ones and rising up early in the morning, walk weary miles to plead with their hearts to God. I have had daughters to stand before me and cry as though their hearts would break because of unsaved fathers, and I have seen wives rise in the meeting to ask the prayers of God's people for unsaved husbands and sink back into their seats through their hearts because the one they loved would not yield himself to God.

THE PEOPLES GATE COMPANY

Cut No. 1 shows this Gate in ordinary position.

Cut No. 2 shows the Gate raised at both ends to pass over snow or for hogs to pass under. This is done in an instant by running the gate off of the wheel and replacing it on the board below.

Shows the Gate open, which is done by running the Gate back half way, then turning it. This makes the Gate easy to operate, so a small child can open and close the Gate

WHAT WE CLAIM FOR THE MARYLAND GATE

FIRST: The stays on this gate are made from channel steel, so crimped that the wheel the gate hangs on can pass through from one edge of the gate to the other so the gate can be taken off instantly without removing a stay or a bolt. These stays will last a lifetime. When the boards are gone they can be replaced with others.
SECOND: The wheel is so constructed it works on a ball and socket, and we use the best quality of malleable iron and like the stays will last a lifetime.
THIRD AND MOST IMPORTANT: There is no strain on the post that this gate hangs on, and it can be attached to the post. And the leaning of the post either way does not affect the working of the gate. No question but that this is the most valuable slide gate ever patented and

MUST BE SEEN TO BE APPRECIATED

OUR TERMS: We sell one Peoples Gate, made from Cypress lumber, and a farm right to make and use both gates for the sum of $10. Then we furnish the fixtures for THE PEOPLES GATE including bolts at $1.50 each. The Maryland Gate we furnish the steel stays and wheel including bolts for $2 per gate. These prices are to those who purchase farm rights. Anyone looking for an investment will find it to their interest to call on

The Sable Lorcha

BY
Horace Hazeltine

(Copyright, 1912, A. C. McClurg & Co.)
"Inquiry, today, at his Fifth avenue home in this city, and at his Connecticut country seat, was fruitless. Mr. Cameron was at neither place, and the servants expressed ignorance concerning his present address.

"At the offices of the Crystal Consolidated Manufacturing company and at those of the missing financier's brokers, Hatch & Hastings, evasion was the keynote of the answers to all questions.

"Whether Mr. Cameron is as ill as is reported, or whether he is quite robust, the effect of the gossip on Crystal Consolidated was disastrous. A slump of fifteen points in two hours, this afternoon, wiped out many weakly margined accounts, and spread ruin among a number of speculators who fondly imagined this law-defying trust, of which Cameron is the supporting Atlas, as firmly entrenched as is the government itself.

"Unless something definite is forthcoming regarding Mr. Cameron's condition before the market opens tomorrow, a panic in Crystal Consolidated is predicted. It closed today at 102½ bid, 103 asked; the lowest figures recorded this year."

It startled me, because it showed that at least a part of the secret we were guarding was a secret no longer; and it perplexed me because I could not fancy through what channel these somewhat distorted facts had filtered into publicity. I had no doubt that the ball, having been set rolling in this fashion, would gain both in volume and momentum unless some energetic measures were promptly taken to check it. And yet, what, under the circumstances, could we do? Subterfuge, I knew, would be useless, and the truth must prove an accelerator.

In haste and with diminished appetite I rushed through my dinner, and a moment later was speeding up the avenue as fast as a taxicab could carry me, with the Cameron mansion my destination and a consultation with Evelyn Grayson my object.

It must not be imagined that in this matter I expected any weighty assistance from a young woman of such limited experience; but she was practically alone in the great house and I could well imagine how already reporters must be vying one with another to wring from her admissions concerning her uncle.

To my infinite relief I found that she had returned the word, "Not at home," to all such callers. Inquiries from other sources had been met in similar fashion. Officers of the company had called in person or had telegraphed, and Hatch & Hastings had been almost aggravatingly insistent.

"But, Evelyn," I said, "this is all such a surprise to me. I had no notion your uncle was at all active in any corporation. I fancied him a director, probably, in a score or more of companies, but that he was the so-called 'Glass King,' I never for a moment suspected. Under the circumstances, he must have a private secretary somewhere, who might have been of inestimable aid to us."

"He has a private secretary, it seems," she replied, "though even I never knew it until I read it in the News this evening. I am sure he never came to Cragholt. His name is Simms—Howard Simms—and he was

A bad back makes you gloomy. Can't be happy with continual backache.

The aches and pains of a bad back. Are frequently due to weak kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills are recommended for weak kidneys.

So grateful citizens testify.

E. L. Hinkle, 641 N. Sexton street, Rushville, Ind., says: "The testimonial I gave in 1910 regarding Doan's Kidney Pills was entirely correct and it is a pleasure to confirm it at this time. In 1900 I was on the verge of Bright's disease. There were sharp pains in my back and I was hardly able to walk. I couldn't rest well. A friend who had been benefited by Doan's Kidney Pills recommended them and I got a supply. I soon found that they were helping me and I continued using them until I was entirely cured. I am glad to give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement."

interviewed at the Company's office. Didn't you see it?"

I confessed that I had missed every evening paper but one.

"It was he, I think," she went on, "who, becoming alarmed at Uncle Robert's long silence, mentioned it to some one, who in turn spread the damaging reports."

"Then he is a very incompetent private secretary," I commented, "if not, indeed, a dangerous one. I shall make a point of seeing Mr. Simms as early as possible tomorrow. Tonight I am going to call on Tony Hatch—I have a nodding acquaintance with him—and assure him that when I last saw Robert Cameron less than a month ago he was in perfect health, and that I am satisfied he is not in any sanitarium or suffering from any mental or physical disorder. If he approves of the idea I shall give out a statement to the newspapers, implying that your uncle has gone on a little journey of which his family are entirely cognizant, and that his return may be expected almost any day. I think that ought to turn the tide in Wall street tomorrow. Meanwhile, my dear Evelyn, continue to be 'not at home.'"

But neither at his home nor at any of his clubs could I find Mr. Hatch, though I searched for him diligently until long after midnight. Evidently he was intent on evading the sleuth hounds of the press, and had successfully taken to cover.

And then, on my way back down the avenue, to the Loyalton, that happened which made all subterfuge, all tact, all dissembling, unnecessary. For on the sidewalk, opposite the cathedral, I found the best of answers to all the questions raised by the rumor mongers—the animate refutation of every disturbing wail word.

CHAPTER XVII.

Opposite the Cathedral.

Fifth avenue at two o'clock in the morning is fast asleep. There are localities in New York which are more widely awake at that hour than at any other time of day, but the highway of fashion is not one of them; and in the neighborhood of Fifth street, its repose is as profound as at any point of its long, undeviatingly straight course.

For over an hour I had waited in that sumptuous white marble club edifice of the plutocrats which ostentatiously punctuates the avenue at Sixtieth street, and, tired of sitting, nervous and disappointed, I had chosen to walk down to my rooms, believing that the exercise in the clear, frosty air would serve to counteract, in a measure at least, all three of these vexations.

To the limit of sight there stretched away a double, converging chain of twin lights marking the curb line for endless blocks, and illuminating the nearer sidewalk and roadway, if not to effulgence, certainly with a clearly defining radiance. Now and then I met a quick-stepping pedestrian, usually in evening dress with cigar alight; and at more or less brief intervals limousined motors and taxicabs with gleaming lamps sped by me at top speed. Once a hansom passed, the hoof-beats of the hard-driven horse resounding jarringly against the night silence.

At Fifty-fourth street I cut diagonally across the avenue to the west side, and, continuing my way southward, absorbed in the problems confronting me, had been for a little quite lost to encompassing objects. Then, suddenly, fearing lest in my abstraction I should pass the street on which my rooms were located, I aroused myself to get an idea of my location.

Across the way the grim facade of the Cathedral rising dark and sullen as a fortress made all clear. But, on my own side of the avenue there had been no such distinguishing mark. The brown stone dwellings, monotonously ugly, with their high stoops and balustraded areas, were no more enlightening than the stone flagging of the sidewalk or the asphalt of the roadway. Scores of blocks presented practically the same aspect as this. But as with critical gaze I measured one after another of these combinations I was all at once arrested by sight of a tall, bent figure clutching the high iron railings which guarded the avenue frontage of the house on the corner—the only really individual house in the row.

My first rough concept was that I had come upon incapability resulting from intemperance. At closer view, wever, I tempered my judgment. The possibility of illness or injury intervened, and I paused Samaritan-like to offer succor. The wayfarer was evidently a man of middle age, if I might judge from the contour of his back, which was towards me, and I saw at once that he was struggling to keep upon his feet by sheer muscular hold of the railing's iron uprights, for his knees were bent threateningly and his arms were extended and tense.

Until I was close beside him he gave no sign of realizing my presence. Indeed I think it was not until I spoke that he half turned his head towards me, and, for the first time, I got sight of his features.

Whether or not I uttered a word, or made a sound, or stood for a long moment silent, I cannot say. I know only that I doubted my eyes and questioned my reason; for, if these were not playing me false, the profile thus revealed to me was the profile of Robert Cameron.

To try to set down in detail just what followed must be an idle effort, with fancy providing the bulk of the ingredients. Surprised, amazed, astounded even, are all too feeble terms to apply to my emotional condition. Dazedly, I was floundering in what seemed a veritable sea of unreality. When the commonplaces began to readjust themselves, I was standing at the curb, my arm wound supportingly about Cameron's waist and his arm pressing heavy on my shoulder. Drawing in to us was an empty hansom cab, provided by Providence, and hailed, I suppose, by me, though I swear I have no recollection of it.

The cabman helped me to lift him in, and at this the pity of his plight smote me, tempering the joy of having found him, and quickening within me a spirit of angry retaliation against his enemies. For the man now at my side was far different from that man who had sat with me on the after deck of the Sibylla, only four weeks ago. He was, indeed, it seemed to me little more than the husk of the Cameron I had known. In facial conformation the change was not so marked, though his expression was pathetically at variance with anything I had ever before seen him wear. The lines of his face were drawn, as with pain, and his eyes were dull to vacancy. He lolled, lazily, in a crumpled heap in his corner, like a spineless manikin; and though I plied him eagerly with a flood of questions, he might have been a deaf mute for all the answers he accorded me. Once I thought he shook his head in negation, but I was later forced to conclude that this was involuntary, being caused by the roll of the cab as one of its wheels encountered a depression in the roadway.

Yet in spite of his sorrowful presence and demeanor—in spite too of the tormenting mystery of his return, which was scarcely less baffling than the mystery of his departure—it was at least a relief to know that he was alive and out of the power of those that were bent upon his harm. Good nursing, coupled with skilful medical attention, had just worked wonders for me, and I was confident that it would do the same for him; and then we should have facts and not theories to aid us in our quest for the culprits, and, eventually, in the administration of justice to the guilty.

I had given the cabman the number of the Cameron house and admonished him to make all possible speed; so, with the long lash of the whip snapping sharply at brief intervals and the jaded horse, thus urged, bounding at a clumsy, lumbering gallop, we rolled noisily northward. Having given over the effort to obtain from my fellow passenger even a gestured answer to my most pertinent inquiries, I turned my mind to what lay before us. The Cameron establishment would doubtless be fast locked in slumber as well as otherwise, but I made small question of my ability to rouse some of the servants. My hope, however, was not to awaken Evelyn. It could mean only a night's rest lost for her, for she could gain nothing by seeing her uncle at this hour, considering his condition.

I was still busy planning when a mighty hand on the lines brought our horse to his haunches, and ourselves nearly out through the suddenly parted apron; and the Cameron residence loomed massive and dark on our right.

As I stepped to the sidewalk the driver descended, too, but I motioned him back.

"Never mind, thank you," I said. "I'll get some one from inside to help carry him." And in a moment my thumb was on the push-button and faintly there came back to me through heavy double doors the far-off echo of the bell, jarring against the silence of the great house.

The promptness with which chains fell and bolts were drawn surprised me. And yet, I suppose, it was merely an evidence of the perfect management of an establishment wherein every contingency is provided against. A footman, as irreproachably liveried and groomed as though the time were midday instead of after two o'clock in the morning, greeted me with becoming imperturbability. I recognized him as one of the men from Cragholt, and called him by name.

"Stephen," I said, with an effort to disguise the excitement with which my every pulse was throbbing, "your master is outside in a cab. He is very weak and will need assistance. Get another man to aid me, and then awaken Mr. Checkabeedy and Louis. And make haste. No, I can't come in; I'll wait outside." He turned away in obedience to my directions, but I checked him. "And, Stephen," I charged, "no word to any one else, as you value your position; especially no word to Miss Grayson."

I marvelled at the man's preserved unemotion. His "Very good, sir," was uttered with all the stolidity which marks a response to the commonplace; and yet I knew that he was fully conscious of the eventfulness of this late and unlooked-for home-coming. And the footman who joined me a few minutes later was not less well-trained.

Together, he and I lifted Cameron from the hansom and carried him up the broad flight of granite steps, between the massive guarding lions, and placed him in a great chair in the hall, before the wide, sculptured fireplace. And though this would probably prove the most exciting topic of the servants' hall for weeks to come, he gave not the smallest sign that he was taking part in other than the usual.

Checkabeedy, the butler, however, though no less perfect a servant, was more privileged; and Louis, volatile as the most characteristic of his countrymen, collapsed utterly, without effort, apparently, at any restraint whatever. The former's interest was evidenced in a commiseratingly lugubrious visage and a few blunt questions, but the Frenchman wept and sobbed in wordless sympathy. And I had it not in my heart to blame either, for a more pitiful picture than the one presented by the restored Cameron as he sat there in his own spacious hall, gazing with lack-luster eyes at the dead and dying embers on the hearth before him, I hope never to see.

The butler, ruddy and rotund, and looking for all the world like a well-fed monk, for he wore a bathrobe of somber hue and his crown was barer than any shaven tonsure, stared for a moment in sad silence. Then, turning to me, he asked:

"But what has happened to Mr. Cameron, sir?"

CORROBORATIVE EVIDENCE HERE

Archbold's Testimony Confirmed By Sheldon.

STANDARD OIL CONTRIBUTION

Treasurer of Republican Committee Who Took Over the Books From Mr. Bliss, Tells the Senate Investigation Committee the Source of Some of the Largest Contributions to the G. O. P. War Chest in the Year 1904.

Washington, Oct. 3.—That $100,000 of Standard Oil money went to the Roosevelt 1904 campaign fund, the senate investigating committee has established conclusively, George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the Republican national committee, is the witness who confirmed Senator Penrose's charges and the subsequent statement of John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil company. Mr. Sheldon testified that the late Cornelius N. Bliss, when he retired as treasurer of the national committee in 1908, turned over to him a list of men and corporation officers who had contributed to the Roosevelt 1904 fund.

"Was there any contribution by the Standard Oil company on that list?" asked Senator Clapp.

"Yes, sir," was Mr. Sheldon's answer.

"How much was it?" asked the chairman again.

"One hundred thousand dollars, but it was down as a contribution by John D. Archbold."

This is the first corroborative evidence that has been obtained by the senate committee in support of the Penrose charges since John D. Archbold testified. Colonel Roosevelt has never denied flatly that the contribution was received, but has maintained that he knew nothing of it and that he issued the strictest instructions to George B. Cortelyou, his national chairman, that no Standard Oil money was to be accepted. Mr. Cortelyou has testified under oath that he knew of no Standard Oil contribution. John D. Archbold, on the other hand, has asserted that Mr. Bliss informed him that both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Cortelyou knew of the contribution; that it was appreciated by them and that he was representing them when he applied for a second gift of $150,000. Mr. Sheldon added another important fact when he testified that Mr. Bliss's statement of the 1904 campaign receipts and expenditures, which was audited by Mr. Sheldon, did not indicate in any way that the $100,000 of Standard Oil money ever was returned.

Mr. Sheldon testified that there were three other contributions of $100,000 each by powerful financial interests to the Roosevelt 1904 fund, namely: The Standard Oil company, $100,000; J. P. Morgan & Co., $100,000; H. C. Frick, $100,000; George J. Gould, $100,000.

Mr. Sheldon was able to recall these contributions because of their size. The witness made the statement that of the $1,990,000 raised by Mr. Bliss in that Roosevelt campaign, 73½ per cent was given by corporations. Democrats eagerly seized upon this statement as a complete confirmation of the charges made by Judge Parker in that campaign, that Mr. Roosevelt's fight was being financed almost entirely by the trusts.

Joseph M. Dixon, Mr. Roosevelt's campaign manager, was another witness examined by the committee. He proved to be most obstreperous, and the committee spent several hours wrangling with him in a most undignified manner. The committee was highly incensed at the charges made by Dixon that the committee is being manipulated so as to investigate Colonel Roosevelt's campaign and no other. It seemed at times as if Senator Dixon and Senator Pomerene would come to blows. Senator Pomerene at one time suggested that the committee ought to send Dixon to jail for contempt, and insisted that the Roosevelt manager's conduct was unbecomingly either as a senator or a gentleman.

The Roosevelt chairman, after making wholesale charges against the Taft and Wilson campaign managers and others, declined absolutely to disclose sources of his information. He refused to answer questions, and the unseemly wrangle was terminated abruptly by Chairman Clapp dismissing the witness from the stand. Only two facts of importance were brought out in the course of Dixon's testimony. One was that he personally had raised $95,000 in the Roosevelt pre-convention campaign. This was in addition to the $14,000 collected by the campaign treasurer, the $52,000 raised in New York county, and the $130,000 expended by William Flinn in Pennsylvania. This brought the total of the Roosevelt expenditures in the pre-convention campaign as disclosed to date up to $420,000.

Mr. Dixon also testified that George W. Perkins, Frank A. Munsey and Dan R. Hanna each contributed $25,000 to his fund of $95,000. This brings the total contributions of Mr. Perkins to the Roosevelt pre-convention campaign up to $62,000. Mr. Munsey's total is $58,000 and Mr. Hanna $50,000. Senator Dixon acknowledged that he called on these three men whenever his war chest ran low and that he tried to distribute the burden equally among them.

CONVICTS LYNCH A NEGRO IN WYOMING

Ravisher Put to Death By Rope In Prison.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Oct. 3.—In the Rawlins state prison, where he had been transferred for safekeeping from the county jail, Frank Wigfoll, a negro, who assaulted Mrs. Julia Higgins, seventy-one years old, at Rawlins on Monday night, was lynched by convicts.

The 300 convicts learned of Wigfoll's presence while they were being marched to the broom factory. The prisoners suddenly leaped upon the guards and the turnkey, overpowered them and secured the keys. Getting a rope, they rushed to the negro's cell. They looped one end of the rope about Wigfoll's neck and fastened the other end to a railing fifty feet above the main floor of the rotunda.

The convicts then seized Wigfoll and hurled him over the railing into the rotunda. His neck was broken instantly. The convicts made no effort to escape from the prison. Instead, without a word, they reformed their lines and waited, ready to march to the broom factory. At this time additional guards went to the cell floor and ordered the convicts to their cells instead of sending them to the factory.

Fresh Revolts in Mexico.

Mexico City, Oct. 3.—A new turn was given to the already serious situation in the south of Mexico by reports of fresh revolts in that region. General Aguilar, the former federal commander, has wiped out a force of about 200 federal soldiers at Tehuacan and General Felix Diaz has taken up arms against the government in northern Puebla.

Wilson at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Oct. 3.—Governor Wilson of New Jersey, Democratic nominee for president, arrived here at 11:30 o'clock this morning and addressed the National Conservation congress in the coliseum at the state fair grounds this afternoon. Tonight Governor Wilson will speak at a Democratic rally at the baseball park.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

It is reported that 205 were killed in a battle between Mexican rebels and federals at Aura Pass, not far from Mochova.

It has been decided to abandon the "Glidden tour" this year. Campaign activities have seriously depleted the entry list and robbed the tour of interest.

A working balance of $90,013.44 was in the treasury when Uncle Sam opened his October account. The public debt was decreased by $211,590 during September.

A painting of the Madonna for which J. P. Morgan was reported recently to have offered $20,000, has been mysteriously stolen from St. John's church in Piacenza, Italy.

Rear Admiral Lucien Young, U. S. N., is dead at New York of an intestinal hemorrhage after an illness of about twenty hours. He was born at Lexington, Ky., in 1852.

William L. Divine, general importing freight agent of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, has been fined in the federal court at New York $15,000 for rebating. Divine pleaded guilty.

The six powers which have failed in the proposed international loan to China have, on the invitation of Russia, joined a conference to press for the payment of the $50,000,000 boxer indemnities.

Frank Chance, manager of the Chicago National League baseball club, has sold his stock in that organization to Harry Ackerman of Pittsburgh for an amount to enable Chance to live in style for his remaining days.

The New York police commissioner has received numerous letters during the past few days from parents in nearby towns saying that their small boys have mysteriously disappeared, lured to New York, they believe, by the attractions of the coming world's series.

UNITED EFFORTS TO PREVENT WAR

Powers May Intervene in the Balkans.

THE ALLIED STATES PROTEST

A Joint Note Has Been Received by the Ambassadors of the Various Powers Represented at Sofia Asking That the Balkan States and Turkey Be Allowed to Settle Their Differences Without Interference.

London, Oct. 3.—According to word received here from Belgrade, actual violence in the Balkan imbroglio has begun. A Turkish patrol of fifty soldiers devastated the Serbian frontier town of Rushka, after firing volley after volley into the town. The inhabitants fled. The dispatch does not state the number of casualties.

With the curt refusal by the Turkish cabinet to surrender the shipment of Serbian war ammunition which was seized by Turkey while passing through, the impression here is that it will take the united efforts of the powers to prevent war. Turkey added to the list of injuries which Greece, Montenegro, Bulgaria and Serbia have sustained by detaining fifty-two Greek ships which were in her ports. These vessels are being held so that in case war is declared the Turkish government can use them as Turkish transports.

M. Gryparis, the Greek minister to Turkey, handed to the Turkish minister of foreign affairs an urgent formal protest against the detention of these vessels. He characterized the act as "illegal, arbitrary and unfriendly." The relations between his country and Turkey are supposed to be friendly, although the unofficial feeling is abnormal. The foreign minister promised a speedy investigation of the matter. Meantime fifty more Greek vessels are bottled up in the Black sea and about 100 more in the sea of Mar-mora.

The entire Balkan peninsula is being turned into a war camp, and a million or more troops are rapidly assembling there. Bulgaria, Serbia, Greece and Montenegro are united in this mobilization, and the desired effect is a show of war strength so strong that Turkey will be awed. The four states in the new Balkan alliance are working in harmony in this matter, and all the troops will be spread along the frontier. For the first time these states are acting together against their common enemy.

The uniformed armies being sent to the front number 460,000. Of these Bulgaria sends 250,000; Serbia, 110,000; Montenegro, 50,000, and Greece 50,000. These countries all have universal military service, so the men will be well trained and armed.

Turkey is not behind in her preparations, the mobilization of troops in Rumelia having already commenced. Turkey is inclined to believe that Roumania will join her against the Balkan states, which would mean that the four in the alliance would be sandwiched in between two powerful allies. The ambassadors of the various powers at Sofia have received duplicate notes asking that the Balkan states and Turkey be allowed to settle their difficulties without interference. These notes state that it is not an attempt to steal territory for which the states are uniting, but because of high, hideous and cruel methods which Turkey has been using in Macedonia toward Macedonia Christians.

WATSON'S WAS A GREAT SPEECH

Charles G. Sefrit, One of Indiana's Most Capable Editors, Comments on Exposition of Doctrine.

BY THE FORMER CONGRESSMAN

Says His is an Example of What a Political Speech Should be—Sympathetic Crowd.

James E. Watson of Rushville, always a prime favorite in Daviess county scored another triumph in his speech in this city, says the Washington Herald. He had a good audience. The Peoples hall was filled, and what always is a greater compliment to a speaker than a crowd. Watson's audience was in sympathy with him and remained throughout the more than two hours of the speech with unmistakable interest and attention.

Watson's address Thursday night, we think, was an admirable illustration of what a public speech from the political hustings ought to be. It was convincing and excellently tempered. He spoke with firmness and conviction, unhesitatingly disapproving the measures and the men he was opposing, but studiously refraining from the use of language of a personally offensive or abusive character.

The temptation to employ savage ridicule and incisive invective in a political speech is strong. It is a thing that all speakers have to fight away from, for it is easy to do; especially easy for a man of Watson's keen sense of humor and marvelous ability to find the sore spot and give it an extra dig. Some public men destroy part of their usefulness and dissipate their opportunities because they do not learn to curb their cutting and unruly tongues.

Mr. Blaine might have had the presidential office more than once if he had not incurred the relentless enmity of Roscoe Conkling by an unfortunate remark. Conkling was a proud man and not a little vain of his personal appearance. One day Blaine likened the New York Republican to a "strutting turkey-cock," and Conkling never forgave him. Thomas B. Reed of Maine, was another great man whose unruly and bitterly sarcastic tongue was not under control.

As we said before, Watson's speech Thursday night was an example of what a political speech should be.

WILLIAMS GETS STAR FLINGER

Maxwell Manager Signs Mike Romine of Erie, Pa., Club to Pitch Sunday's Game.

THE SPECIAL LEAVES AT 12:30

Andy Biltz Will Play Centerfield for Locals—Game Promises to be Thriller.

Rushville will face Mike Romine, late of the Erie, Pa., Central League club Sunday in the game at Newcastle. Romine has been secured to pitch for the Maxwells' and the fans there believe he can trim the locals. Manager Maibaugh and the local fans are not a bit excited over this announcement as Romine does not look bad to them.

The special train over the L. E. & W. will leave here at 12:30 o'clock and a large crowd will accompany the team. The Rushville team will probably line up as last Sunday with one or two exceptions. Andy Biltz, whose home is in Brookville will play center field and Arthur Quisser will hold down the first base job. Biltz recently returned from the Three-I league and will add much to the hitting strength of the team. Golden or Halterman will pitch. The Newcastle Courier says of Mike Romine and the game:

Big Mike Romine, the former Indiana pitcher, who was the star flinger for the Erie, Pa., team of the Central league, will be the boxman Sunday for the Maxwell club in the game against Rushville. His services were secured Tuesday in Indianapolis by Manager Williams. While with the Erie club Romine won seventeen out of twenty-three games pitched.

Williams also has lined out for another infielder to use in the contest, Sunday. He will play Carlin again at second base and Woode at third. Woode played a splendid game last Sunday at Rushville.

The Rushville fans are making preparations to come to Newcastle in big numbers Sunday. They will come on a special train and will be accompanied by a band. The winning of last Sunday's contest has aroused the fans there to a high pitch.

SLASHED ACROSS FACE

Ora Wagoner is Hurt Accidentally by Man Cutting Corn.

Ora Wagoner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Wagoner, 521 West Third street, was severely cut on the face yesterday with a corn knife. He was working in a field on a farm north of the city where a man was using a corn knife. The boy was hidden from the view of the man with the knife and the result was he was slashed. It required several stitches to close the wound. Dr. Lowell M. Green attended him.

to have put a stop to the talk and the matter was adjusted in milder tones. Policeman Wolter has the council back of him and arrests may follow if the gamblers are game enough to run again after the word has been passed down the line. One place is known to have closed yesterday afternoon as soon as the word was slipped to the proprietor.

Another incident of the star chamber session was brought out today. After the police incident, Dr. Parsons made a motion that Supt. Mahin install water meters at all hotels, restaurants, saloons, factories, pool rooms and lodges. It was stated that several of these places wasted the city water. The motion was made after the council adjourned. It was brought to a vote and a tie resulted. Mayor Black voted against the motion and gave as his reason that as the council had just borrowed $2200 he could not see why the taxpayers should be stung for an additional $700, the cost of meters and installation for the places involved.

ARREST WIDOW FOR FOWL THEFT

Sheriff Bebout Goes to Milroy This
Afternoon to Bring Mrs. Sarah
Richey to Jail.

TWO GRAND JURY CHARGES

She is Taken in Decatur County For Stealing 10 Turkeys From
Mrs. Lot Holman.

Mrs. Sarah Richey, a widow, living below New Salem, who formerly resided in Milroy, was arrested at her home just over the Rush county line, north of Greensburg today on two grand jury indictments, returned by the last grand jury.

The indictments charged larceny and contributing to the delinquency of her children. Mrs. Richey was arrested by Sheriff Patterson of Decatur county. He left Greensburg at one o'clock this afternoon to take Mrs. Richey to Milroy, where she was to be transferred to Sheriff Bebout of this county, who was to bring her on to Rushville. At a late hour this afternoon the Rush county sheriff had not arrived.

The larceny charge was preferred by the grand jury on account of the theft of ten turkeys from Mrs. Lot Holman, living near New Salem, early this summer. Mrs. Richey had earned a reputation of this sort while she lived in Milroy and once had to stand trial for chicken stealing, but was found not guilty.

Early last summer Mrs. Holman discovered that several of her valuable turkeys had been stolen. Although Mrs. Richey lives several miles from the Holman farm, Mrs. Holman was informed of Mrs. Richey's reputation, and disignising herself so she could not be recognized, made a trip to the Richey farm to see what she could learn.

Mrs. Holman recognized some of her turkeys, but they had been changed in color by the use of paint, and by clipping their wings. Mrs. Holman essayed the role of a detective and led Mrs. Richey on to see what she could find out about her property. She inquired where she could get some turkeys, and was informed by Mrs. Richey that Mrs. Holman who lived several miles north she said, raised fine turkeys.

That was enough for Mrs. Holman and she left, determined to return later and claim her property. Mrs. Holman had heard that Mrs. Richey might resort to the use of firearms, so she prepared for such an emergency. When Mrs. Holman went back and demanded Mrs. Richey give up the stolen property, Mrs. Richey promptly started in to bluff Mrs. Holman out by calling to her son to bring her gun.

But Mrs. Holman was not to be disposed of in any such a manner and she promptly called Mrs. Richey's bluff, so to speak. She told the woman she had come prepared, and that if Mrs. Richey started any gun play she would be met with the same thing. Mrs. Richey soon quieted down and said Mrs. Holman could have the turkeys she thought were hers. Mrs. Holman could find only a few of the number which had been stolen.

Little is known of the other charge of contributing to her children's delinquency other than that Mrs. Richey is said to have children and has been using them to advantage.

Mrs. Richey was alleged to have stolen chickens from a relative while she lived in Milroy, but when the relative returned home he found the fowls had been returned. Mrs. Richey stood trial but was set free.

FINDS CONDITIONS GOOD

Henry County Board of Charities
Visits Spiceland Home.

The county board of charities paid a call to the Spiceland Children's Home Tuesday, and found conditions satisfactory, says the Newcastle Times. All the children, thirty-two in number, were in school. Of these fifteen are Henry county children and seventeen from Rush county. It is understood that Mrs. Barber will relinquish her position as matron with the close of the year, and that Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Harvey of Spiceland will be appointed to the position.

BOY SAYS FARMER BEAT HIM CRUELLY

Walter Sedam Escapes From Farm
South of Knightstown, Seeking
Aid in Newcastle.

TAKEN TO HENRY COUNTY FARM

Walter Sedan, who claims that he is sixteen years old, but who looks several years younger, was brought to police headquarters Wednesday afternoon by Omer Catt, who found him trying to solicit aid and being impressed by his story took it up with the officers, says the Newcastle Courier. The boy claims that he had been living with a farmer south of Knightstown, but because of brutal treatment he had received at the hands of the man, he ran away. He is without funds and was attempting to get aid to take him to the home of an aunt, who lives in Sheridan.

Directly after he was brought into the station he had a fainting spell and was quite sick for some time. He has had very little to eat and has been exposed to the weather for several nights. After a physician was called and he was revived he was taken to the restaurant and given a meal.

Township Trustee Peed was notified and he made arrangements with Bryant Hosier at the county farm to take the boy for several days until inquiry could be made into his case.

HOW IS HE, YES?

Muncie Press: One bunch of Bull Moose bosses yanked Joseph Greenstreet of Newcastle off the Bull Moose congressional ticket in the Sixth district and another bunch sitting under the flashing eye of the immortal Albert Jehovah himself, has nominated him for congress. Now, if he wasn't fit to run for congress, how can he be the man to help Albert Jeremiah wade through blood, slaughter and sudden death to the New Jerusalem in the State of Indiana?

Think This Over

Democratic farmer, why should you vote for free trade and the return of the conditions existing in Cleveland's administration?

The average corn crop for a farmer is thirty acres. The usual crop averages about sixty bushels to the acre. At fifty cents a bushel—corn is now quoted at sixty-one cents—the farmer can realize $30 to the acre. In Cleveland's administration corn sold at twenty cents. Then an acre of corn was worth $10. A crop in those days brought $20 less than the present one. Then today a farmer raising an average corn crop is $600 better off than he was in '93. Is a vote for Woodrow Wilson worth that much?

MAYOR BLACK MAKES DENIAL

Says he Was Not Questioned by Dr.
Parsons, But Took Part in Probe.

RELATES HIS SIDE OF STORY

"Green Carpet" Session Has Desired
Effect on Gambling as Word
Goes Down the Line.

The story of the "green carpet" session of the city council appearing last evening created a profound stir among the city officials and Mayor B. A. Black was indignant because his name was connected with the police as being one of the witnesses in the gambling probe started by Councilman Parsons.

Mayor Black when seen today stated that the real facts in the case had not been given and proceeded to relate his version of the affair. Mayor Black said the meeting of the council had been concluded and several of the members were preparing to leave when called back by Dr. Parsons. According to the mayor, Dr. Parsons stated he had something to bring before the council and looked carefully around to see that no newspaper men were present as his communication was to be strictly confidential.

"Dr. Parsons did not ask me a single question," said Mayor Black, "and when he told us his attention had been brought to gambling here in the city, I spoke up and stated that as chief executive of this city, if there was any gambling going on I wanted to know all about it and when he suggested that the police be questioned I readily consented. The probe, if there was one, was conducted by myself rather than by Dr. Parsons as I asked most of the questions."

Mayor Black declared he was not asked a single question concerning gambling. Mr. Black said like all other people he had heard rumors of gambling, but could not prove it. He pointed out that it had been one of his policies never to permit gambling and had told the police if any help was desired in stopping a game just call on him and he would help.

Mayor Black admitted that the police had made a "near" raid Saturday night on a room in the Commercial Block and that this was brought in Tuesday night at the "green carpet" session. The mayor denied that he was nervous or even angry at the time the questioning was taking place.

Policeman Wolter said today that the after session was not near as warm as first reported. McAllister demanded to know why he had not been informed of the gambling that was going on and Wolter replied that he had already told him three different times. Mayor Black is alleged

Mrs. Mary Ann Michelson, 84 years old, died last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Bay, in West Second street. Mrs. Michelson had been ill only a few days suffering with the same ailment, which claimed Mrs. Bay's two-year-old daughter, day before yesterday. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

CITY LOST FIRST DOWN IN CASE

Judge Blair Overruled Demurrer,
Thus Holding Miller's Complaint
for Injunction is Good.

IT WILL BE HEARD TOMORROW

Four Divorce Suits Were Disposed of
and Rulings Made Closing
Many Cases.

Judge Blair is winding up the business of the September term of the circuit court which will close Saturday.

The city today lost the first fight in the injunction suit, brought by Philip Miller to seek to enjoin the city from selling electrical supplies. Judge Blair overruled the demurrer of the city, and in this action held that the complaint of Miller is good. Had he sustained the demurrer, the ruling would have been in effect that the complaint was not good, and that Miller, in order to keep the case in court, would have had to file an amended complaint.

In view of the fact that this is an injunction suit Judge Blair is anxious to hear it at once. The trial will be started tomorrow afternoon at one-thirty o'clock. Miller alleges that the city has no right to do business under the laws of Indiana, it being the owner of the municipal plant.

Four divorce suits were disposed of today. In the case of Anna Belle Stewart against William Stewart, in which a decree was asked, a divorce was granted the plaintiff on payment of costs.

Judge Blair returned a decision in the divorce case of John M. Montgomery against Minnie Montgomery, granting a decree to the husband and refusing the wife one on her cross complaint. The children: Roy, age 14; Mazie, age 12, and Sylvia, age 9 were committed to the Rush-Henry orphan's home at Spiceland, the court holding that the parents were not fit persons to care for them. The father was ordered to pay $3 a week into the treasury of Rush county for their support until further decree of the court.

Only recently Mrs. Montgomery was given a 6 months suspended jail sentence and fined one dollar for conducting a house of ill fame. She was also charged in a grand jury indictment with contributing to delinquency, but this was dismissed when the fine and sentence was passed in the other.

The case of Cordelia J. Robbins against Edward H. Robbins, in which a divorce, the setting aside of a deed and a thousand dollars alimony was asked, was dismissed by the plaintiff.

The divorce suit of Bertha McBee against Charles H. McBee, in which a thousand dollars alimony was demanded, was dismissed for want of prosecution.

Four claims against the estate of Ada J. Matney, of which James Mercer is the administrator, were dismissed by the claimants. They were, and the amounts of the claims asked, are as follows: Ocea E. Williams, $277.58; John O. Williams, $25; Elijah A. Matney, $30, and William F. Matney, $100.

The highway petition of Charles H. Alger and others, an appeal from the commissioners court, was dismissed. The petition was for the improvement of parts of Perkins, Sixth, Seventh and Eighth streets under the three-mile road law, which was not sustained by the commissioners on account of the number of remonstrators. A similar petition has since been held good as the time for the

Omer Collier, Prominent Democrat
Locally, Writes From Baltimore.

Omer Collier of this city, a cigar maker, and one of the prominent Democratic workers in this city, has written Will O'Neil that everything looks decidedly Taft in the East. Mr. Collier is in Baltimore where he is attending the convention of the cigar makers union. Mr. Collier writes that the name of Roosevelt, the instigator of the Bull Moose party, is seldom heard and that the battle lies between Wilson and Taft with a strong undercurrent for the president.

PLANS FOR SEVERAL SPEECHES HERE

Republican Advisory Committee Con-
fers With Candidates in Regard to Political Meetings.

DEMOCRATS OPEN OCTOBER 14

The Republican advisory committee and the candidates for county offices held a conference this afternoon at the Republican headquarters. The meeting was for the purpose of outlining a plan of campaign and to consider speaking dates. The central committee has a line on several orators of national repute and the dates will probably be announced soon.

The Democrats of Rush county will open the campaign here October 14, when Governor O'Neil of Alabama will speak at the Coliseum. Emily H. Gray, Democratic candidate for congress is spending this week in Rush county speaking at the small towns.

MUCH STOCK CONSIGNED

Prespects For Horse Show and Sale
Grow Brighter Daily.

Prospects for the annual fall horse show and combination sale, which events will be held October 16, 17, 18, and 19, are growing brighter every day. J. C. Ryburn, secretary, went to Hamilton, Ohio, today to advertise the show and auction. John S. Lackey, the noted Cambridge City horseman, has sent word that he will ship nine head of Shetland ponies here for the auction. Luke Duffy of Indianapolis has consigned two light harness horses to the sale. A Mr. Lord of Greentown, Howard county, will send two draft horses for the sale.

GARD BOY BROUGHT HERE.

Ralph Gard, who was injured by a train in Anderson a few weeks ago and who has been confined in an Anderson hospital since that time, has been brought to his home in this city. One of his feet, and half of the other on, had to be amputated. He was asleep on the track when the train passed over him.

The Massman Manufacturing Co. of Indianapolis has brought suit on account against Mrs. Ella H. Buchtel of Knightstown. Judgment in the sum of $61.85 is demanded.

MOTHERS DAY TO BE OBSERVED

That Sentiment Will Prevail at Tabernacle Tomorrow Afternoon When
Dr. Biederwolf Will Preach.

MEETING FOR H. S. STUDENTS

Evangelist Scolds Church Members
For Not Leading Sinners to Christ When They Can.

* MOTHERS DAY. *
* This was God's gift, immortal, *
* changeless, vast, *
* Whose name He wrote, be- *
* cause he knew no other *
* Name sweeter, on our waking *
* consciousness, *
* In golden characters. That *
* name was "Mother." *

The sentiment that clings about the mother will prevail at the tabernacle tomorrow when Mothers day service will be held in the afternoon at two-thirty o'clock. Every person is requested to wear a white carnation, which may be procured at several stores free of charge, in commemoration of the day. Dr. Biederwolf will preach and some special musical numbers will be presented.

The Knights of the Holy Grail will have a bean supper at the St. Paul M. E. church this evening and then march to the tabernacle in a body. This afternoon at four o'clock a teens meeting was held at the tabernacle when all boys and girls under thirteen and nineteen years of age were addressed by Dr. Biederwolf.

Beginning yesterday meetings are being held every afternoon in the tabernacle at three o'clock, preceded a half hour by Miss Parshall, who conducts a Bible study class. There will be no Bible class tomorrow afternoon on account of Mothers day. Tomorrow afternoon at four o'clock Miss Parshall will hold a meeting for high school students at the Christian church. Don Cochran will lead the music.

The crowd last night was the equal of the one the night before, but the interest was intense when Dr. Biederwolf began to preach on the subject, "No Man Cares For My Soul." He chastised church members verbally for not speaking to sinners when they know their word alone would lead them to Christ. His appeal was eloquent and vibrant with enthusiasm, and it was well received. Dr. Biederwolf said in part:

"A man is in pretty hard lines when nobody cares for him. It would not be so bad to be like some Robinson Crusoe out on a lonely island with no one about you, but to have your garments brushed on every side by your fellow creatures and yet to be alone in all the world is a thought sad enough for tears.

"Of course I might just as well stop long enough before I go any further to say to you that you are what you want to be. Don't go around throwing the blame for your low down condition on anybody else.

"If you are a foul mouthed, profane curser, it's because you'd rather cuss than pray; if you're a booze fighter, or even a moderate drinking man, it's because you'd rather fill your hide with red liquor, than to be sober and decent. If you're a libertine, it's because you'd rather be lecherous than be a Christian and pure; you know that if you become a Christian there'll have to be a mighty big change take place in your life and you ain't man enough to meet the issue and get square with God.

"Yet all this don't excuse the

"Queens of the Folies Bergere" is the title of the big burlesque show holding the boards at the Empire theater, Indianapolis this week. This show presents two novel burlettas, the first showing the Famous Times Square in New York City at night. It is entitled "The Eagle Birds" and is the breezy sort of farce most enjoyed by burlesque patrons. "The Oriental Palace" is the finale, while an excellent olio of vaudeville acts is sandwiched between the two. Joe J. Sullivan, one of the funniest of Irish comedians heads the company which is a notable one.

Geo. T. Craddock, Rubie, Ark., says: "I was bothered with lumbago for seven years so I could not work. I tried several kinds of kidney medicine which gave me little or no relief. Two bottles of Foley Kidney Pills cured me and now I can do any kind of work. I cheerfully recommend them to my friends." F. B. Johnson & Co.

FIRST ANNUAL SALE OF DUROC JERSEYS

65 Head of Pure Bred Duroc Jersey Swine 65
The best lot of stock to be found in Indiana, at Falmouth, Indiana

Thursday, October 3, 1912

BEGINNING AT 12 O'CLOCK SHARP

These pigs are sired by the following boars: C. E. Orion, 23839, sired by the Great Orion Chief. The old hog lies buried on the Matern farm in Illinois, having died July 19th. No hog did more for the Durocs than did Orion Chief. His daughters have been among the best sellers and as a class among the top brood sows of the breed, while he has also put many sons at the head of herds.

Perry's Top Col. was sired by Col. S.; Col. S. by King of Cols. Perry's Top Col. is a great hog. He is two years old and weighs 700 pounds.

Falmouth Pilot was sired by Kelley's Pilot wonder. The dams of offering are nearly all sired by high priced, winning boars. BROTHER BREEDERS come out and spend the day with me, see these great sires, hear the Colonels talk, and eat a good dinner. Dinner will be served Free promptly at 11 o'clock by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Fairview Christian Church.

TERMS MADE KNOWN ON DAY OF SALE

Parties coming from a distance will be entertained at the Windsor Hotel, Rushville, by E. K. Morris at my expense by registering and telling the clerk they will attend the sale of B. M. Perry.

AMUSEMENTS

The Shubert Murat theater, Indianapolis announces as its attraction for Wednesday and Thursday, October 2 and 3, Neil O'Brien and his "American Minstrels," a new organization of burnt-cork celebrities which has already attracted much favorable attention. It's star, Neil O'Brien, and in fact all the principal performers surrounding him have long been prime favorites with local audiences.

For years, Mr. O'Brien has been identified with the success of Lev Dockstader in which organization he was the chief factor in winning the greater portion of its success and fame. At the head of his own company, Mr. O'Brien can now produce and consummate ideas which have long been his pet theories regarding minstrel production. Always filling his calling with dignity added to sincere, earnest and able effort, no performer on the minstrel stage would appear more capable to the task of bringing back minstrelsy to its old time vigor and favor.

The company includes Billy Van. Eddie Nazier, the Exposition Four, Wm. H. Hallett, Jack McShane, Pete Detzel, Al Fontaine, Doran & Strong, Charles E. Wheeler, Major Nowak and a score of other well known minstrel names in addition to a big singing and dancing chorus and an orchestra of eighteen.

Mr. Jas. V. Churchill, 90 Wall St., Auburn, N. Y., has been bothered with serious kidney and bladder trouble ever since he left the army, and says: "I decided to try Foley Kidney Pills as they had cured so many people and I soon found they were just the thing. My kidneys and bladder are again in a healthy condition. I gladly recommend them. F. B. Johnson & Co. (Advertisement.)

DIFFICULTIES MARK EFFORTS TO GET JURY

Veniremen Afraid to Serve In Dynamite Case.

Indianapolis, Oct. 3.—The distinguishing feature of the efforts to get a jury is fear of organized labor should they sit upon the jury to try the iron workers indicted for dynamiting, and more than one of the veniremen called here from his home in the mining districts or cities where organized labor is very strong, indicated extreme reluctance to act and managed to be excused. B. F. Haynes, a merchant of Linton, which is in the coal fields, told the court plainly that he was afraid to sit on the jury, as it might ruin his business if he followed his conscientious judgment in passing upon the guilt or innocence of the defendants.

CONSERVATION OF HUMAN RACE

Essense of Charity, Kindness, Patience and Truth.

WE MUST LOOK TO HYGIENE

This Term Includes, Says Dr. John H. Hurty, Head of the American Health Association, Every Necessary Force to Prevent Disease, to Increase Strength and Endurance and to Prevent the Production of the Unfit.

Indianapolis, Oct. 3.—At the conservation congress a striking address on the "Conservation of the Human Race" was made by Dr. John H. Hurty of Indianapolis, president of the American Public Health association. He said:

"High authority says we are only 50 per cent efficient; that we live out less than one-half the natural duration of life; that we consume twice as much food as is needed to maintain efficient life; that we waste as much as we use, and that one-half of all human beings born either die before reaching maturity or fall into the defective, delinquent or dependent classes.

"In these facts we find reasons why we waste the major portion of all our resources, and call it development. In these facts we find reasons for the existence of robber taxation and predatory business.

"For a people who waste themselves, will, of course, waste their natural resources. Therefore, the first, the most important, the fundamental conservation, is the conservation of human efficiency.

"A people who cannot be brought to a realization of the fact that they lead only half lives and, who realizing, will not mend, will show the nations to come what fools the present mortals were."

Most people do not know how, or will not, conserve their vitality, Dr. Hurty said, and this results in the shortening of life. Our vital statistics show, he said, that fully 100,000 people in Indiana are sick at all times, and 25,000 of them are consumptive. He said that not less than half of this is preventable, and three-fourths may be prevented by strong effort.

Patent Medicines Denounced.

Dr. Hurty denounced the indiscriminate use of patent medicines, and said: "At present we are in the patent medicine stage of ignorance from which we must emerge before real conservation of human life and energy can be realized."

School hygiene is an important force in conserving human vitality, Dr. Hurty said, and he referred to the advanced step Indiana had taken in passing a law ordaining that schoolhouses shall be built in a sanitary manner. There is a world-wide movement to save children and make them strong, he said, and quoted a remark by a Japanese physician visiting Indiana, who said: "We have relatively fewer short graves in our cemeteries."

"May God hasten the business men to permit hygiene to banish those twin leproses which are important factors in the causation of insanity, crime and pauperism and which so fearfully wreck the lives of so many innocent women and children as well as wreck the lives of the guilty," he exclaimed.

The Science of Living.

We must learn the science of living, Dr. Hurty said, and "the science of living begins at the mouth."

All drugs, poisons and improper foods should be kept away from the mouth, Dr. Hurty advised. He said that over-fatigue is another element which causes great loss of human vitality and weakens the body so that it is attacked by diseases.

The question of heredity should be more thoroughly studied, he said, and the production of the hereditary insane and idiotic should be prevented.

"Indiana now has five great insane asylums, each representing about one million dollars, and there are enough insane in the jails, poorhouses and in homes to fill another one," he said.

The population of Indiana increased 16 per cent in the last decade and insanity increased 29 per cent, the speaker declared. In closing Dr. Hurty said:

"We must look to hygiene, the science of health, to conserve human vitality. The term includes every necessary force to prevent disease, to increase strength and endurance, and to prevent the production of the unfit.

"The ponderous and impressively costly courts have been grinding for centuries and crime increases. Punishment and fear of punishment restrains evil doing, but does not eradicate the tendency to evil. This and other defects we must, as far as possible, breed out of the race, and science can find a valid answer for every objection which obstructionists can raise.

"Hygiene not only makes for greater physical strength and endurance, but it makes for greater moral strength. It is the essence of charity, kindness, patience and truth.

"When, through hygiene, defectives, delinquents and dependents are no longer propagated, when simplicity and frugality of living are achieved, voluntary celibacy and voluntary childlessness will become discreditable, and sickness, disease and premature death will disappear before temperance and sanctified homes."

Truth About Reciprocity.

If you are against President Taft on the reciprocity issue, whom will you support?

Will it be Roosevelt?

In a letter to President Taft, dated New York, January 12, 1911, Roosevelt said: It seems to me that what you propose to do with Canada is admirable from every standpoint." He also said to President Taft in the same letter: "It is greatly to your credit to make the effort." But Mr. Roosevelt went far beyond President Taft's proposition. He wrote in his letter the following sentence:

"I firmly believe in free trade with Canada for both economic and political reasons."

If you support Roosevelt you not only support reciprocity but absolute free trade with Canada. Do you want free trade with Canada?

Would you support Woodrow Wilson?

In his testimony before the Tariff Board in 1882, Governor Wilson, then a college professor, when asked the question, "are you advocating the repeal of all tariff laws?" answered, "Of all protective tariff laws; of establishing a tariff for revenue only. It seems to be very absurd to maintain that we shall have free trade between different portions of this country and at the same time shut ourselves out from free communication with other producing countries of the world."

Woodrow Wilson is a confessed free trader. Champ Clark, speaker of the Democratic House, publicly asserted on the floor of the House that he would like to see every Custom House torn down. If the Democratic party comes into power they will be free trade between the United States and Canada and every other producing country.

President Taft's reciprocity proposition made concessions to Canada, but provided for an equal return. Canada rejected the proposition, whereupon the Republican members of Congress voted to repeal the reciprocity law which had been passed. The Democrats voting solidly in favor of its retention. Canadian newspapers openly favor the election of either Roosevelt or Wilson, in order to obtain a one-sided arrangement which shall be wholly beneficial to Canada without regard to the welfare of the American people.

Reciprocity is not a dead issue. With the election of either Wilson or Roosevelt it would become very much alive.

From Albert J. Beveridge's own assertions he is politically "dead" today. He admitted to John Bonnell of Crawfordsville, former internal revenue collector, before the Republican convention, according to a statement by Bonnell, that Roosevelt's nomination meant to him (Beveridge) his political life or death. Well, Theodore was not nominated at the Republican convention. What's the inference?

Since the Republicans have recovered from the lethargy in which they have been mired, as it was indicated that they have at the Sixth district rally in Newcastle, this week, there is bound to be something in the old "burnt" district to make Finly Gray look to his toga. The new district chairman, P. J. Lynch, a prosperous florist of Newcastle, is a live wire in the political arena, and promises to arouse the Republicans to such strenuous work as they have not experienced in many a day.

Christian for his miserable neglect, and his lack of concern for his neighbor's soul.

"It's a strange thing that there ever could have been a time in the history of the world when the words, 'no man cares for my soul' could drop from human lips and be an honest expression of a man's feelings because of the neglect of God's people in showing a little interest in him. And it's a good deal sadder that after two thousand years of the preaching of the gospel of Jesus Christ that man can live in Rushville and say those same words for the same reason that Christian people have no concern about him.

"I am going to suggest two or three reasons for this lack of concern why we don't care more than we do for the souls of other people:

"The first is that we are too busy caring for other things. We put so much emphasis on the material side of life that we have no time left for the spiritual.

"A crank ran up to Mr. Emerson one day and in great excitement exclaimed: 'Do you know the world will speedily come to an end?' 'Well,' said Mr. Emerson, 'I think I can get along without it.' He could and you can too. And some of you are going to get along without this world a good deal sooner than you think.

"When John Quincy Adams was in tottering old age, a man said to him once: 'Good morning, Mr. Adams, how are you?' 'Very well, thank you,' he replied, 'the house in which I live is somewhat dilapidated and fast tottering into ruins, but Mr. Adams himself, thank you, was never better in all his life.' Of course he wasn't. But to so many of the spiritual is so unreal that we have almost forgotten that there is any such thing.

"There are people here tonight, who are called Christians and you have not thought five minutes this day about God or your soul, or about the grave, or about eternity, or about the real meaning of this life, and is it any wonder that you are neglecting the souls of others.

"This brings to me the second reason why we are not more concerned than we are. It is this: we don't seem to realize that we have personal responsibility for the saving of other souls.

"Listen to what God says: 'So thou oh, son of man, I have set thee a watchman unto the house of Israel. Therefore thou shalt hear the word at my mouth and warn them from me. When I say unto the wicked, oh, wicked man, thou shalt surely die if thou dost not speak to warn the wicked from his way, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity but his blood will I require at thy hand.'

"Listen! I will give you another reason why. It is because of our failure to have clear views of the condition of lost men.

"I have known fathers to awake in the night time and find themselves weeping and praying for lost loved ones and rising up early in the morning, walk weary miles to plead with their hearts to God. 'I have had daughters to stand before me and cry as though their hearts would break because of unsaved fathers, and I have seen wives rise in the meeting to ask the prayers of God's people for unsaved husbands and sink back into their seats through the awful sorrow that surged through their hearts because the one they loved would not yield himself to God.

The Peoples Gate

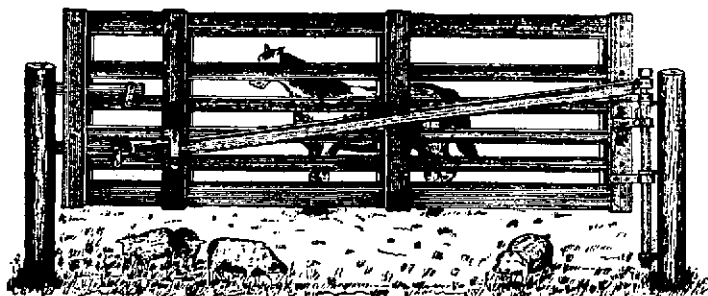

The following cuts represent the "PEOPLES GATE" which is being so much talked about in Rushville and vicinity and is having such a large sale in Rush county

Cut No. 1 shows the Peoples Gate in ordinary position on level ground.

Cut No. 2 shows the Peoples Gate as it would be on sloping ground or side hill.

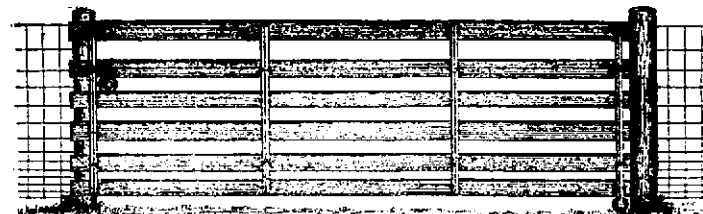

Cut No. 3 shows the Peoples Gate raised at both ends so any one person can separate hogs and sheep from horses and cattle. Or to enable the gate to swing over deep snow, straw and manure at the barn yard. Also preventing colts from jumping over

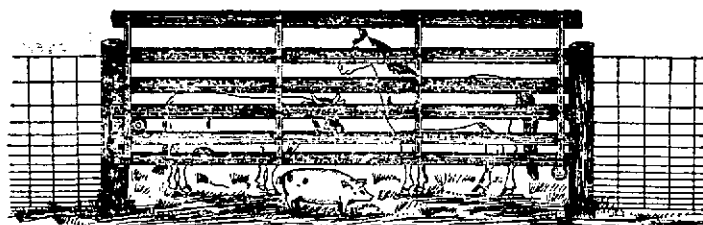

The Maryland Gate

The following cuts represent "THE MARYLAND GATE" owned by

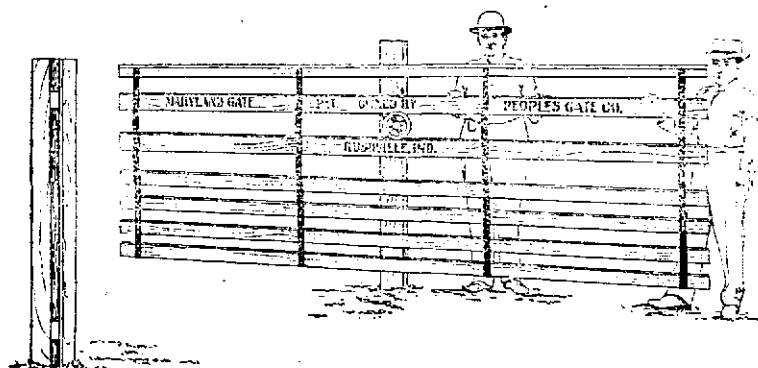

THE PEOPLES GATE COMPANY

Cut No. 1 shows this Gate in ordinary position.

Cut No. 2 shows the Gate raised at both ends to pass over snow or for hogs to pass under. This is done in an instant by running the gate off of the wheel and replacing it on the board below.

Shows the Gate open, which is done by running the Gate back half way, then turning it. This makes the Gate easy to operate, so a small child can open and close the Gate

WHAT WE CLAIM FOR THE MARYLAND GATE

FIRST: The stays on this gate are made from channel steel, so crimped that the wheel the gate hangs on can pass through from one edge of the gate to the other so the gate can be taken off instantly without removing a stay or a bolt. These stays will last a lifetime. When the boards are gone they can be replaced with others.

SECOND: The wheel is so constructed it works on a ball and socket, and we use the best quality of malleable iron and like the stays will last a lifetime.

THIRD AND MOST IMPORTANT: There is no strain on the post that this gate hangs on, and it can be attached to the post. And the leaning of the post either way does not affect the working of the gate. No question but that this is the most valuable side gate ever patented and

OUR TERMS: We sell one Peoples Gate, made from Cypress lumber, and a farm right to make and use both gates for the sum of $10. Then we furnish the fixtures for THE PEOPLES GATE including bolts at $1.50 each. The Maryland Gate we furnish the steel stays and wheel including bolts for $2 per gate. These prices are to those who purchase farm rights. Anyone looking for an investment will find it to their interest to call on

The Sable Lorcha

BY Horace Hazeltine

(Copyright, 1912, A. C. McClary & Co.)
"Inquiry, today, at his Fifth avenue home in this city, and at his Connecticut country seat, was fruitless. Mr. Cameron was at neither place, and the servants expressed ignorance concerning his present address."

"At the offices of the Crystal Consolidated Manufacturing company and at those of the missing financier's brokers, Hatch & Hastings, evasion was the keynote of the answers to all questions."

"Whether Mr. Cameron is as ill as is reported, or whether he is quite robust, the effect of the gossip on Crystal Consolidated was disastrous. A slump of fifteen points in two hours, this afternoon, wiped out many weakly margined accounts, and spread ruin among a number of speculators who fondly imagined this law-defying trust, of which Cameron is the supporting Atlas, as firmly entrenched as is the government itself."

"Unless something definite is forthcoming regarding Mr. Cameron's condition before the market opens tomorrow, a panic in Crystal Consolidated is predicted. It closed today at 102½ bid, 103 asked; the lowest figures recorded this year."

It startled me, because it showed that at least a part of the secret we were guarding was a secret no longer; and it perplexed me because I could not fancy through what channel these somewhat distorted facts had filtered into publicity. I had no doubt that the hall, having been set rolling in this fashion, would gain both in volume and momentum unless some energetic measures were promptly taken to check it. And yet, what, under the circumstances, could we do? Subterfuge, I knew, would be useless, and the truth must prove an accelerant.

In haste and with diminished appetite I rushed through my dinner, and a moment later was speeding up the avenue as fast as a taxicab could carry me, with the Cameron mansion my destination and a consultation with Evelyn Grayson my object.

It must not be imagined that in this matter I expected any weighty assistance from a young woman of such limited experience; but she was practically alone in the great house and I could well imagine how already reporters must be vying one with another to wring from her admissions concerning her uncle.

To my infinite relief I found that she had returned the word, "Not at home," to all such callers. Inquiries from other sources had been met in similar fashion. Officers of the company had called in person or had telegraphed, and Hatch & Hastings had been almost aggravatingly insistent.

"But, Evelyn," I said, "this is all such a surprise to me. I had no notion your uncle was at all active in any corporation. I fancied him a director, probably, in a score or more of companies, but that he was the so-called 'Glass King,' I never for a moment suspected. Under the circumstances, he must have a private secretary somewhere, who might have been of inestimable aid to us."

"He has a private secretary, it seems," she replied, "though even I never knew it until I read it in the News this evening. I am sure he never came to Cragholt. His name is Simms—Howard Simms—and he was

I confessed that I had missed every evening paper but one.

"It was he, I think," she went on, "who, becoming alarmed at Uncle Robert's long silence, mentioned it to some one, who in turn spread the damaging reports."

"Then he is a very incompetent private secretary," I commented, "if not, indeed, a dangerous one. I shall make a point of seeing Mr. Simms as early as possible tomorrow. Tonight I am going to call on Tony Hatch—I have a nodding acquaintance with him—and assure him that when I last saw Robert Cameron less than a month ago he was in perfect health, and that I am satisfied he is not in any sanatorium or suffering from any mental or physical disorder. If he approves of the idea I shall give out a statement to the newspapers, implying that your uncle has gone on a little journey of which his family are entirely cognizant, and that his return may be expected almost any day. I think that ought to turn the tide in Wall street tomorrow. Meanwhile, my dear Evelyn, continue to be 'not at home.'"

But neither at his home nor at any of his clubs could I find Mr. Hatch, though I searched for him diligently until long after midnight. Evidently he was intent on evading the sleuth bounds of the press, and had successfully taken to cover.

And then, on my way back down the avenue, to the Loyalton, that happened which made all subterfuge, all tact, all dissembling, unnecessary. For on the sidewalk, opposite the cathedral, I found the best of answers to all the questions raised by the rumor mongers—the animate refutation of every disturbing waif word.

CHAPTER XVII.

Opposite the Cathedral.

Fifth avenue at two o'clock in the morning is fast asleep. There are localities in New York which are more widely awake at that hour than at any other time of day, but the highway of fashion is not one of them; and in the neighborhood of Fifth street, its repose is as profound as at any point of its long, undeviatingly straight course.

For over an hour I had waited in that sumptuous white marble club edifice of the plutocrats which ostentatiously punctuates the avenue at Sixtieth street, and, tired of sitting, nervous and disappointed, I had chosen to walk down to my rooms, believing that the exercise in the clear, frosty air would serve to counteract, in a measure at least, all three of these vexations.

To the limit of sight there stretched away a double, converging chain of twin lights marking the curb line for endless blocks, and illuminating the nearer sidewalk and roadway. If not to effulgence, certainly with a clearly defining radiance. Now and then I met a quick-stepping pedestrian, usually in evening dress with cigar alight; and at more or less brief intervals limousined motors and taxicabs with gleaming lamps sped by me at top speed. Once a hansom passed, the hoof-beats of the hard-driven horse resounding jarringly against the night silence.

At Fifty-fourth street I cut diagonally across the avenue to the west side, and, continuing my way southward, absorbed in the problems confronting me, had been for a little quite lost to encompassing objects. Then, suddenly, fearing lest in my abstraction I should pass the street on which my rooms were located, I aroused myself to get an idea of my location.

Across the way the grim facade of the Cathedral rising dark and sullen as a fortress made all clear. But, on my own side of the avenue there had been no such distinguishing mark. The brown stone dwellings, monotonously ugly, with their high stoops and balustraded areas, were no more enlightening than the stone flagging of the sidewalk or the asphalt of the roadway. Scores of blocks presented practically the same aspect as this. But as with critical gaze I measured one after another of these combinations I was all at once arrested by sight of a tall, bent figure clutching the high iron railings which guarded the avenue frontage of the house on the corner—the only really individual house in the row.

My first rough concept was that I had come upon incapacity resulting from intemperance. At closer view, never, a tempered my judgment. The possibility of illness or injury intervened, and I paused Samaritan-like to offer succor. The wayfarer was evidently a man of middle age, if I might judge from the contour of his back, which was towards me, and I saw at once that he was struggling to keep upon his feet by sheer muscular hand-hold of the railing's iron uprights, for his knees were bent threateningly and his arms were extended and tense.

Until I was close beside him he gave no sign of realizing my presence. Indeed I think it was not until I spoke that he half turned his head towards me, and, for the first time, I got sight of his features.

Whether or not I uttered a word, or made a sound, or stood for a long moment silent, I cannot say. I know only that I doubted my eyes and questioned my reason; for, if these were not playing me false, the profile thus revealed to me was the profile of Robert Cameron.

To try to set down in detail just what followed must be an idle effort, with fancy providing the bulk of the ingredients. Surprised, amazed, astounded even, are all too feeble terms to apply to my emotional condition. Dazedly, I was floundering in what seemed a veritable sea of unreality. When the commonplaces began to readjust themselves, I was standing at the curb, my arm wound supportively about Cameron's waist and his arm pressing heavy on my shoulder. Drawing in to us was an empty hansom cab, provided by Providence, and halted, I suppose, by me, though I swear I have no recollection of it.

The cabman helped me to lift him in, and at this the pty of his plight smote me, tempering the joy of having found him, and quickening within me a spirit of angry retaliation against his enemies. For the man now at my side was far different from that man who had sat with me on the after deck of the Sibylla, only four weeks ago. He was, indeed, it seemed to me little more than the husk of the Cameron I had known. In facial conformation the change was not so marked, though his expression was pathetically at variance with anything I had ever before seen him wear. The lines of his face were drawn, as with pain, and his eyes were dull to vacancy. He lolled, lazily, in a crumpled heap in his corner, like a spineless manikin; and though I pried him eagerly with a flood of questions, he might have been a deaf mute for all the answers he accorded me. Once I thought he shook his head in negation, but I was later forced to conclude that this was involuntary, being caused by the roll of the cab as one of its wheels encountered a depression in the roadway.

Yet in spite of his sordidness of presence and demeanor—in spite too of the tormenting mystery of his return, which was scarcely less baffling than the mystery of his departure—it was at least a relief to know that he was alive and out of the power of those that were bent upon his harm. Good nursing, coupled with skilful medical attention, had just worked wonders for me, and I was confident that it would do the same for him; and then we should have facts and not theories to aid us in our quest for the culprits, and, eventually, in the administration of justice to the guilty.

I had given the cabman the number of the Cameron house and admonished him to make all possible speed; so, with the long lash of the whip snapping sharply at brief intervals and the jaded horse, thus urged, bounding at a clumsy, lumbering gallop, we rolled noisily northward. Having given over the effort to obtain from my fellow passenger even a gestured answer to my most pertinent inquiries, I turned my mind to what lay before us. The Cameron establishment would doubtless be fast locked in slumber as well as otherwise, but I made small question of my ability to rouse some of the servants. My hope, however, was not to awaken Evelyn. It could mean only a night's rest lost for her, for she could gain nothing by seeing her uncle at this hour, considering his condition.

I was still busy planning when a mighty hand on the lines brought our horse to his haunches, and ourselves nearly out through the suddenly parted apron; and the Cameron residence loomed massive and dark on our right.

As I stepped to the sidewalk the driver descended, too, but I motioned him back.

"Never mind, thank you," I said. "I'll get some one from inside to help carry him." And in a moment my thumb was on the push-button and faintly there came back to me through heavy double doors the far-off echo of the bell, jarring against the silence of the great house.

The promptness with which chains fell and bolts were drawn surprised me. And yet, I suppose, it was merely an evidence of the perfect management of an establishment wherein every contingency is provided against. A footman, as irreproachably liveried and groomed as though the time were midday instead of after two o'clock in the morning, greeted me with becoming imperturbability. I recognized him as one of the men from Cragholt, and called him by name.

"Stephen," I said, with an effort to disguise the excitement with which my every pulse was throbbing, "your master is outside in a cab. He is very weak and will need assistance. Get another man to aid me, and then awaken Mr. Checkabeedy and Louis. And make haste. No, I can't come in; I'll wait outside." He turned away in obedience to my directions, but I checked him. "And, Stephen," I charged, "no word to any one else, as you value your position; especially no word to Miss Grayson."

I marvelled at the man's preserved unemotion. His "Very good, sir," was uttered with all the stolidity which marks a response to the commonplace; and yet I knew that he was fully conscious of the eventfulness of this late and unlooked-for home-coming. And the footman who joined me a few minutes later was not less well-trained.

Together, he and I lifted Cameron from the hansom and carried him up the broad flight of granite steps, between the massive guarding lions, and placed him in a great chair in the hall, before the wide, sculptured fireplace. And though this would probably prove the most exciting topic of the servants' hall for weeks to come, he gave not the smallest sign that he was taking part in other than the usual.

Checkabeedy, the butler, however, though no less perfect a servitor, was more privileged; and Louis, volatile as the most characteristic of his countrymen, collapsed utterly, without effort, apparently, at any restraint whatever. The former's interest was evidenced in a commiseratingly lugubrious visage and a few blunt questions, but the Frenchman wept and sobbed in wordless sympathy. And I had it not in my heart to blame either, for a more pitiful picture than the one presented by the restored Cameron as he sat there in his own spacious hall, gazing with lack-luster eyes at the dead and dying embers on the hearth before him, I hope never to see.

The butler, ruddy and rotund, and looking for all the world like a well-fed monk, for he wore a bathrobe of somber hue and his crown was bared than any shaven tonsure, stared for a moment in sad silence. Then, turning to me, he asked:

"But what has happened to Mr. Cameron, sir?"

CORROBORATIVE EVIDENCE HERE

Archbold's Testimony Confirmed By Sheldon.

STANDARD OIL CONTRIBUTION

Treasurer of Republican Committee Who Took Over the Books From Mr. Bliss, Tells the Senate Investigation Committee the Source of Some of the Largest Contributions to the G. O. P. War Chest in the Year 1904.

Washington, Oct. 3.—That $100,000 of Standard Oil money went to the Roosevelt 1904 campaign fund, the senate investigating committee has established conclusively. George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the Republican national committee, is the witness who confirmed Senator Penrose's charges and the subsequent statement of John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil company. Mr. Sheldon testified that the late Cornelius N. Bliss, when he retired as treasurer of the national committee in 1908, turned over to him a list of men and corporation officers who had contributed to the Roosevelt 1904 fund.

"Was there any contribution by the Standard Oil company on that list?" asked Senator Clapp.

"Yes, sir," was Mr. Sheldon's answer.

"How much was it?" asked the chairman again.

"One hundred thousand dollars, but it was down as a contribution by John D. Archbold."

This is the first corroborative evidence that has been obtained by the senate committee in support of the Penrose charges since John D. Archbold testified. Colonel Roosevelt has never denied flatly that the contribution was received, but has maintained that he knew nothing of it and that he issued the strictest instructions to George B. Cortelyou, his national chairman, that no Standard Oil money was to be accepted. Mr. Cortelyou has testified under oath that he knew of no Standard Oil contribution. John D. Archbold, on the other hand, has asserted that Mr. Bliss informed him that both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Cortelyou knew of the contribution; that it was appreciated by them and that he was representing them when he applied for a second gift of $150,000.

Mr. Sheldon added another important fact when he testified that Mr. Bliss's statement of the 1904 campaign receipts and expenditures, which was audited by Mr. Sheldon, did not indicate in any way that the $100,000 of Standard Oil money ever was returned.

Mr. Sheldon testified that there were three other contributions of $100,000 each by powerful financial interests to the Roosevelt 1904 fund, namely: The Standard Oil company, $100,000; J. P. Morgan & Co., $100,000; H. C. Frick, $100,000; George J. Gould, $100,000.

Mr. Sheldon was able to recall these contributions because of their size. The witness made the statement that of the $1,000,000 raised by Mr. Bliss in that Roosevelt campaign, 73½ per cent was given by corporations.

Democrats eagerly seized upon this statement as a complete confirmation of the charges made by Judge Parker in that campaign, that Mr. Roosevelt's fight was being financed almost entirely by the trusts.

Joseph M. Dixon, Mr. Roosevelt's campaign manager, was another witness examined by the committee. He proved to be most obstreperous, and the committee spent several hours wrangling with him in a most undignified manner. The committee was highly incensed at the charges made by Dixon that the committee is being manipulated so as to investigate Colonel Roosevelt's campaign and no other. It seemed at times as if Senator Dixon and Senator Pomerene would come to blows. Senator Pomerene at one time suggested that the committee ought to send Dixon to jail for contempt, and insisted that the Roosevelt manager's conduct was unbecoming either as a senator or a gentleman.

The Roosevelt chairman, after making wholesale charges against the Taft and Wilson campaign managers and others, declined absolutely to disclose sources of his information. He refused to answer questions, and the unseemly wrangle was terminated abruptly by Chairman Clapp dismissing the witness from the stand. Only two facts of importance were brought out in the course of Dixon's testimony. One was that he personally had raised $95,000 in the Roosevelt pre-convention campaign. This was in addition to the $14,000 collected by the campaign treasurer, the $52,000 raised in New York county, and the $130,000 expended by William Flinn in Pennsylvania. This brought the total of the Roosevelt expenditures in the pre-convention campaign as disclosed to date up to $420,000.

Mr. Dixon also testified that George W. Perkins, Frank A. Munsey and Dan R. Hanna each contributed $25,000 to his fund of $95,000. This brings the total contributions of Mr. Perkins to the Roosevelt pre-convention campaign up to $62,000. Mr. Munsey's total is $58,000 and Mr. Hanna $50,000. Senator Dixon acknowledged that he called on these three men whenever his war chest ran low and that he tried to distribute the burden equally among them.

CONVICTS LYNCH A NEGRO IN WYOMING

Ravisher Put to Death By Rope in Prison.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Oct. 3.—In the Rawlins state prison, where he had been transferred for safekeeping from the county jail, Frank Wigfoll, a negro, who assaulted Mrs. Julia Higgins, seventy-one years old, at Rawlins on Monday night, was lynched by convicts.

The 300 convicts learned of Wigfoll's presence while they were being marched to the broom factory. The prisoners suddenly leaped upon the guards and the turnkey, overpowered them and secured the keys. Cutting a rope, they rushed to the negro's cell. They looped one end of the rope about Wigfoll's neck and fastened the other end to a railing fifty feet above the main floor of the rotunda.

The convicts then seized Wigfoll and hurled him over the railing into the rotunda. His neck was broken instantly. The convicts made no effort to escape from the prison. Instead, without a word, they reformed their lines and waited, ready to march to the broom factory. At this time additional guards went to the cell floor and ordered the convicts to their cells instead of sending them to the factory.

Fresh Revolts in Mexico.

Mexico City, Oct. 3.—A new turn was given to the already serious situation in the south of Mexico by reports of fresh revolts in that region. General Aguilar, the former federal commander, has wiped out a force of about 200 federal soldiers at Tehuacan and General Felix Diaz has taken up arms against the government in northern Puebla.

Wilson at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Oct. 3.—Governor Wilson of New Jersey, Democratic nominee for president, arrived here at 11:30 o'clock this morning and addressed the National Conservation congress in the coliseum at the state fair grounds this afternoon. Tonight Governor Wilson will speak at a Democratic rally at the baseball park.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

It is reported that 205 were killed in a battle between Mexican rebels and federals at Aura Pass, not far from Moctova.

It has been decided to abandon the "Glidden tour" this year. Campaign activities have seriously depleted the entry list and robbed the tour of interest.

A working balance of $90,013.43 was in the treasury when Uncle Sam opened his October account. The public debt was decreased by $211,590 during September.

A painting of the Madonna for which J. P. Morgan was reported recently to have offered $20,000, has been mysteriously stolen from St. John's church in Piacenza, Italy.

Rear Admiral Lucien Young, U. S. N., is dead at New York of an intestinal hemorrhage after an illness of about twenty hours. He was born at Lexington, Ky., in 1852.

William L. Divine, general importing freight agent of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, has been fined in the federal court at New York $15,000 for rebating. Divine pleaded guilty.

The six powers which have failed in the proposed international loan to China have, on the invitation of Russia, joined a conference to press for the payment of the $50,000,000 boxer indemnities.

Frank Chance, manager of the Chicago National League baseball club, has sold his stock in that organization to Harry Ackerman of Pittsburgh for an amount to enable Chance to live in style for his remaining days.

The New York police commissioner has received numerous letters during the past few days from parents in nearby towns saying that their small boys have mysteriously disappeared, lured to New York, they believe, by the attractions of the coming world's series.

UNITED EFFORTS TO PREVENT WAR

Powers May Intervene in the Balkans.

THE ALLIED STATES PROTEST

A Joint Note Has Been Received by the Ambassadors of the Various Powers Represented at Sofia Asking That the Balkan States and Turkey Be Allowed to Settle Their Differences Without Interference.

London, Oct. 3.—According to word received here from Belgrade, actual violence in the Balkan imbroglio has begun. A Turkish patrol of fifty soldiers devastated the Serbian frontier town of Bushka, after firing volley after volley into the town. The inhabitants fled. The dispatch does not state the number of casualties.

With the curt refusal by the Turkish cabinet to surrender the shipment of Serbian war ammunition which was seized by Turkey while passing through, the impression here is that it will take the united efforts of the powers to prevent war. Turkey added to the list of injuries which Greece, Montenegro, Bulgaria and Serbia have sustained by detaining fifty-two Greek ships which were in her ports. These vessels are being held so that in case war is declared the Turkish government can use them as Turkish transports.

M. Gryparis, the Greek minister to Turkey, handed to the Turkish minister of foreign affairs an urgent formal protest against the detention of these vessels. He characterized the act as "illegal, arbitrary and unfriendly." The relations between his country and Turkey are supposed to be friendly, although the unofficial feeling is abnormal. The foreign minister promised a speedy investigation of the matter. Meantime fifty more Greek vessels are bottled up in the Black sea and about 100 more in the sea of Marmora.

The entire Balkan peninsula is being turned into a war camp, and a million or more troops are rapidly assembling there. Bulgaria, Serbia, Greece and Montenegro are united in this mobilization, and the desired effect is a show of war strength so strong that Turkey will be awed. The four states in the new Balkan alliance are working in harmony in this matter, and all the troops will be spread along the frontier. For the first time these states are acting together against their common enemy.

The uniformed armies being sent to the front number 460,000. Of these Bulgaria sends 250,000; Serbia, 110,000; Montenegro, 50,000, and Greece 50,000. These countries all have universal military service, so the men will be well trained and armed.

Turkey is not behind in her preparations, the mobilization of troops in Rumelia having already commenced. Turkey is inclined to believe that Roumania will join her against the Balkan states, which would mean that the four in the alliance would be sandwiched in between two powerful allies. The ambassadors of the various powers at Sofia have received duplicate notes asking that the Balkan states and Turkey be allowed to settle their difficulties without interference. These notes state that it is not an attempt to steal territory for which the states are uniting, but because of high, hideous and cruel methods which Turkey has been using in Macedonia toward Macedonia Christians.

Mrs. Peter Holan, 11501 Buckeye Rd., Cleveland, O., says: "Yes, indeed I can recommend Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. WATSON'S WAS A GREAT SPEECH

Charles G. Sefrit, One of Indiana's Most Capable Editors, Comments on Exposition of Doctrine.

BY THE FORMER CONGRESSMAN

Says His is an Example of What a Political Speech Should be—Sympathetic Crowd.

James E. Watson of Rushville, always a prime favorite in Daviess county scored another triumph in his speech in this city, says the Washington Herald. He had a good audience. The Peoples hall was filled, and what always is a greater compliment to a speaker than a crowd, Watson's audience was in sympathy with him and remained throughout the more than two hours of the speech with unmistakable interest and attention.

Watson's address Thursday night, we think, was an admirable illustration of what a public speech from the political hustings ought to be. It was convincing and excellently tempered. He spoke with firmness and conviction, unhesitatingly disapproving the measures and the men he was opposing, but studiously refraining from the use of language of a personally offensive or abusive character.

The temptation to employ savage ridicule and incisive invective in a political speech is strong. It is a thing that all speakers have to fight away from, for it is easy to do; especially easy for a man of Watson's keen sense of humor and marvelous ability to find the sore spot and give it an extra dig. Some public men destroy part of their usefulness and dissipate their opportunities because they do not learn to curb their cutting and uruly tongues.

Mr. Blaine might have had the presidential office more than once if he had not incurred the relentless enmity of Roscoe Conkling by an unfortunate remark. Conkling was a proud man and not a little vain of his personal appearance. One day Blaine likened the New York Republican to a "strutting turkey-cock," and Conkling never forgave him. Thomas B. Reed of Maine, was another great man whose uruly and bitterly sarcastic tongue was not under control.

As we said before, Watson's speech Thursday night was an example of what a political speech should be.

WILLIAMS GETS STAR FLINGER

Maxwell Manager Signs Mike Romine of Erie, Pa., Club to Pitch Sunday's Game.

THE SPECIAL LEAVES AT 12:30

Andy Biltz Will Play Centerfield for Locals—Game Promises to be Thriller.

Rushville will face Mike Romine, late of the Erie, Pa., Central League club Sunday in the game at Newcastle. Romine has been secured to pitch for the Maxwells and the fans there believe he can trim the locals. Manager Maibaugh and the local fans are not a bit excited over this announcement as Romine does not look bad to them.

The special train over the L. E. & W. will leave here at 12:30 o'clock and a large crowd will accompany the team. The Rushville team will probably line up as last Sunday with one or two exceptions. Andy Biltz, whose home is in Brookville will play center field and Arthur Quisser will hold down the first base job. Biltz recently returned from the Three-I league and will add much to the hitting strength of the team. Golden or Halterman will pitch. The Newcastle Courier says of Mike Romine and the game:

Big Mike Romine, the former Indiana pitcher, who was the star flinger for the Erie, Pa., team of the Central league, will be the boxman Sunday for the Maxwell club in the game against Rushville. His services were secured Tuesday in Indianapolis by Manager Williams. While with the Erie club Romine won seventeen out of twenty-three games pitched.

Williams also has lined out for another infielder to use in the contest, Sunday. He will play Catlin again at second base and Woode at third. Woode played a splendid game last Sunday at Rushville.

The Rushville fans are making preparations to come to Newcastle in big numbers Sunday. They will come on a special train and will be accompanied by a band. The winning of last Sunday's contest has aroused the fans there to a high pitch.

SLASHED ACROSS FACE

Ora Wagoner is Hurt Accidentally by Man Cutting Corn.

Ora Wagoner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Wagoner, 521 West Third street, was severely cut on the face yesterday with a corn knife. He was working in a field on a farm north of the city where a man was using a corn knife. The boy was hidden from the view of the man with the knife and the result was he was slashed. It required several stitches to close the wound. Dr. Lowell M. Green attended him.

CITY LOST FIRST DOWN IN CASE

ling of a remonstrance has passed. A claim of Wilbert C. Pierce against himself as administrator of the estate of Nelson White, deceased, for $211.58 was allowed in full.

Upon the recommendation of Eugene C. Miller, who was appointed to investigate the claim of $61.98 against the estate of John B. Souther of which Robert Longfellow was administrator, was allowed in full to the administrator who filed it.

The case of Charles H. Harton against George F. Root, in which judgment on notes for $455 was asked, was dismissed by the plaintiff and the costs paid.

In the case of Lewis Baum against Albert C. Cooper, in which $96 and the foreclosure of a chattel mortgage were demanded, the defendant defaulted and judgment in the sum of $60.25 was returned for the plaintiff, and the mortgage foreclosed.

Judgment for the plaintiff in the sum of $4530.79 was allowed in the case of The Marmet-Helm Coal & Coke Company against the Connersville Light, Heat & Power Company. Five thousand dollars was demanded.

to have put a stop to the talk and the matter was adjusted in milder tones. Policeman Wolter has the council back of him and arrests may follow if the gamblers are game enough to run again after the word has been passed down the line. One place is known to have closed yesterday afternoon as soon as the word was slipped to the proprietor.

Another incident of the star chamber session was brought out today. After the police incident, Dr. Parsons made a motion that Supt. Mahin install water meters at all hotels, restaurants, saloons, factories, pool rooms and lodges. It was stated that several of these places wasted the city water. The motion was made after the council adjourned. It was brought to a vote and a tie resulted. Mayor Black voted against the motion and gave as his reason that as the council had just borrowed $2200 he could not see why the taxpayers should be stung for an additional $700, the cost of meters and installation for the places involved.
